SINGER'S SEWING MACHINES!

THE SINGER NEW FAMILY MACHINE, which has achieved such wonderful success, is designed to do every variety of domestic work, from the finest muslin to the heaviest cloth, and in connection with attachments for fancy work it is capable of a variety of sewing unequalled by any other machines. The Singer Manufacturing Company's sales for 1876, as officially returned, reached the enormous number of 264,316 Machines, exceeding by 153,319 the sales of the W. and W. Company, the only aspiring rival of the Singer, and the Singer Company's returns for 1877 amount to 282,812 Machines, being an increase for the year of 20,496 Machines, while their principal rival significantly refuses to supply any returns. At the Centennial Exhibition the Singer Company exhibited their Two Millionth Machine, and the vast extent of the manufacturing operations of the firm may be inferred from the fact that their works at Elizabeth Port, New Jersey, cover six acres of ground, employ 2500 hands, and turn out about 4000 machines per week. In addition to the works, the Company possess factories at Glasgow, where 1500 hands are employed, and over 3000 machines are made weekly.

RANGES! RANGES!! RANGES!!!

AND REGISTER GRATE AND WASHING FURNACE MANUFACTORY.

ESTABLISHED 27 years, eighteen years in Sydney and Victoria, and nine years in Canterbury. Holds eight of the highest honorary certificates of the Christchurch Agricultural Show, first and second prizes at the Ashburton Show fo the year 1878.

T. ATKINSON has now the largest Range Factory in New Zealand, turning out 40 ranges a month. That is the best certificate, as it shows how the public appreciate them, and that they are being judged by competent housewives who know the value of a range they are working with every day.

Builders and Contractors would do well to call and see the prices for Castings in their line of business. Highest price given for old cast iron.

WHAT THE GOVERNOR SAW.

The Governor looked round, as he passed on his way
Under triumphal arches and banners so gay,
"Look at that Boot Shop, my dear," he did say,
Next to the A1 Hotel.

"I heard that my friend, Hyde, was doing so well,
No wonder, when cheap and good Boots he can sell
At Wholesale Price; he is selling, they say,
Next to the A1 Hotel."

"So after the ball and this 'fuss' has all past,
'In-cog' we'll call on our old friend at last;
And purchase some Boots, which none can surpass
Next to the A1 Hotel."

Now, readers, 'tis known I'm writing no stuff
It would not pay me to get up a puff;
On me a a workman you can rely;
So come and inspect, and I'm sure you will buy
Next to the A1 Hotel.

RANGES! RANGES! RANGES!

T. J. WATTERS, Cooking Range Manufacturer, Kiver's Right-of-way (next Bank of Australasia), Cashel street. 2nd Prize Taker at the A. and P. Association's Show, 1878. Ranges from 2ft 6in to 8ft, fitted with Grills, Circulating Boilers and High-pressure Boilers, by which hot water can be conveyed upstairs for baths and other purposes. Price list:—Ranges 2ft 6in, £4; Ranges, 3ft, with fittings complete, £6 10s; Ranges, 8ft 6in, complete, with cast iron sliding fire-place, £11 10s. Special arrangements for fitting up Hotels, &c. The Christchurch "Press" of November 10, 1878, says:—"The great impetus which has lately been given to the manufacture of stoves and ranges was amply proved by the very large number of exhibits in this class. No less than eighteen ranges were entered for the prize, of all kinds, shapes, and make. The judges awarded the first prize to Messrs Scott Brothers, and second to Mr Watters; but there can be little doubt that their verdict should have been reversed, as Mr Watters' range, for the price, was by far the most complete and best on the ground. The first prize one was priced at £20, without a boiler, but with double oven, and £30 with a boiler. Mr Watters' on the contrary, with boiler and good roomy oven, was priced at £11 10s. This also has every good contrivance attached to it, in the shape of a moveable iron fire back, and by means of two handles the fire, when required to be brought forward could be done so." 3795

THE STAR

It has been brought under the notice of the Proprietors of this Journal, that by opening that portion of its Advertising Space known as the "Wanted" Column to advertisers at a low price, it may be made the medium of a class of business at present transacted in more inconvenient ways, and supply a want long elt. People wanting servants, people wanting employment, people who have lost or who have found things, are often deterred from making their wants known through the columns of the Public Press by the price charged, which is considered high when compared with the value of the purpose sought to be achieved. As the STAR is now pre-eminently the most popular journal in Canterbury, enjoying, as it does, a large circulation amongst the class by whom such a concession would be regarded as a boon, it has been thought desirable that it should be made the medium at once. After this date, therefore, advertisements in the "Wanted" Column of the STAR, when they do not exceed Sixteen Words, will be inserted for conditionally upon payment accompanying the Manuscript.

ONE SHILLING

EACH INSERTION,

As the STAR now possesses a legitimate circulation of considerably over

The Star.

MONDAY, JUNE 9, 1879.

WE certainly are somewhat at a loss to understand how a well conducted and leading journal like the Lyttelton Times can reconcile its conduct, in devoting six of its columns to the publication of such utterly useless dreary stuff as the speech of MR STEVENS, with its duty to the public. That the Casbel street organ should do so, and should embellish the production with a more than faithful record of the cold-blooded "cheers" and "loud applause" from half a dozen enthusiastic claqueurs in a shivering meeting of 150 persons, can very readily be understood. With the single exception of the events which have recently occurred in connection with Native affairs, there was not one of the subjects touched by this great representative orator, but what was discussed ad nauseam during the session which closed some seven months ago. Indeed, the questions of Electoral Reform, Finance, Land, Property, and Income Taxation were discussed exhaustively in these columns, and in the columns of some of our contemporaries months before the last session began, and months after it closed. To expect, therefore, that the public Press is to go over the whole of these subjects again at this time, simply because a STEVENS flounders into them and distorts them to suit his party proclivities, is something too much—something, in short, which no newspaper reading constituency could expect us to do. Mr STEVENS did not attempt to offer one word of excuse for keeping back his review of the events of last Session for seven months. There was no "busy harvest" to serve for such a purpose as at Kaiapoi. Whether MR STEVENS thought that he would be able to give it to the Government hot, in proportion as the subjects grew cold, we cannot attempt to say; but certainly as cold a meeting, as cold as speaker, and as wretchedly freezing a speech have rarely been brought together anywhere. We were forcibly reminded of a verse of Burns' after the poet had lingered half asleep through an almost similarly solemn meeting in church—

"As cauld as win' as ever blew,
As cauld a Kirk, an' in't but few,
As cauld a Minister as ever spak—
Ye'll aw be het e'er I be back!"

We may differ from the views held by MR ROLLESTON, MR MONTGOMERY, and other of our public men, but we are bound to respect them when we find that, upon all occasions when they profess to do certain things, there is a reasonable approach to honest performance. The political partisans however who come before the public with professedly postsessional addresses, but in reality very obvious party attacks upon the Government only seven months after the session has closed, belong to an entirely different class. As such, of course, they must be treated.

MR STEVENS states his opinion now that "the Electoral Bill of the Ministry was a good one, it improved the electoral system of the Colony to a very large extent, the Government were entitled to a great amount of credit for bringing it forward, and for its construction." We do not remember that MR STEVENS expressed himself in that manner during the progress of the Bill through the Lower House, and the statement is only made now in order to render the atrocity of Ministers in abandoning the measure all the more hideous. Readers of this journal know that we have never been able to write one word in support of this wonderfully good Ministerial Bill, simply because the nature of its liberality was of so restricted a character that in our view it would fail in accomplishing the changes desirable, and the only good thing the Government did in connection with the half-hearted thing was to abandon it. Here, of course, we are quite at variance with MR STEVENS. But, to our mind, of all the twaddle in this full-of-twaddle speech, the twaddle about the land tax is the most ridiculous. We, of course, presume that MR STEVENS knows that there is a difference between a land tax and a property tax, yet from the beginning of this branch of his speech MR STEVENS insisted upon dealing with the land tax as if it was a property tax—as if the entire aim and object of the Act was to tax property generally—and that it entirely failed to do so. As the land tax was never intended for any such purpose, MR STEVENS might have spared himself the hour's agony he suffered in tearing himself to pieces over a question which everybody except his two or three dozen friendly adherents and the Cashel street organ perfectly understands. Of course, had the object been to tax real estate generally, the Government would have taken the Assessment Rolls of the local bodies. No Minister, either in Victoria or New Zealand, would be so mad as to throw aside so large, valuable, and generally reliable a machinery, if it were suitable for their purpose. That, in both Colonies, this machinery has been thrown aside, must be held some evidence that the object sought was not to tax the results of toil ability or frugality. As the object aimed at is to tax land and land only, the valuation rolls of the local bodies in both Colonies have, of course, been cast aside. MR STEVENS then proceeded to show how the land tax failed to tax house property, and considering that it was never intended that it should, it would have been surprising if he had not been in some degree successful. MR BOWEN, at Kaiapoi, in triumphant tones demanded to know if any of his hearers knew what "unearned increment" means, and of course from the property qualified and highly intelligent voters of the electoral wilds of this celebrated region an answer was shouted back—amidst the usual "cheers" of course—in the negative. MR BOWEN made a great point out of the ignorance or the complaisant good nature of his hearers. In Christchurch the subject could not be thus dealt with, and MR STEVENS had evidently no intention of referring to what he well knows to be the real principle of the Bill, and when it was brought under his notice he rode off upon a flippant answer.

The purpose of the Land Tax Act is not to make "every person pay according to their means," and therefore it is not to be judged by any such standard. It is a measure aimed at a particular class, and carefully framed to omit all others. It is not intended to bear in any way upon the poor and struggling, nor is it designed to touch the fruits of honourable industry. It exempts the land of the cottager or the person in comparatively humble circumstances, by limiting its operation to those only whose lands exceed £500 in value; the object being to reach the holders of large estates or properties of considerable value who can well afford to pay. No Liberal can object to this. A man buys from the State 10,000 acres of land at £2 per acre; through the prosecution of public works and the general advancement of the Colony, in a few years his purchase is worth £3, perhaps £10 per acre. The difference between the value and his payment represents an increase not due to industry, ability, or any quality deserving of consideration, of his. It is "unearned," and may well be called upon to bear the strain of taxation. Apart from this, there are speculators in land—with whom, of course, MR STEVENS has no community of interest—Land Sharks who trade upon this unearned increment stepping between the Government and the bond fide settler, this class can well be called upon to contribute to the revenue. There are the large holders of land who live out of the country upon the proceeds of their large landed estates, and these are called upon to pay for the value given to their lands through no effort of theirs. In the very cases quoted it is made abundantly clear that the Act is not the general property-taxing measure which, for his own purpose, MR STEVENS assumed it to be. MR STEVENS has—he tells us—built a large house in Hereford street. The money he has expended represents the rewards of worthy toil and noble industry, and, as such, it is respected; but the increase in the value of the land is in no way due to any effort of his, and upon that increase the tax-collector very properly falls. MR STEVENS knows this, but he did not put it so. So, too, about his other illustration—the two allotments of the same value. One man spends £10,000 in building a commercial palace upon his section; the other man may have only a cottage, perhaps nothing at all upon his, yet he may really be the wealthier of the two for all that. We know to-day, if we forget it tomorrow, that a palatial appearance is not always to be taken as a guarantee for soundness. Whether he is poor or wealthy however, he is called upon to pay only upon the increased value that has come to him without any labour of his. Both the sections of the merchant Prince and the humble cottager are, in this respect, entirely in the same position. Their gains, through the increased value of their allotments, are the same, and they are asked to pay a small sum upon such gains. It is impossible to conceive a fairer principle, or one open to so few objections. The Land Tax measure may, through the preliminary cost of initiating its working machinery, not prove in its results a financial success this year, but MR STEVENS well knows that the objections to a property tax or an income tax are infinitely more numerous and heavy than any that can be urged against the principle of the present Act. We have referred to this at length in order to show that we are justified in our characterisation of MR STEVENS' utterance; but his twaddle was by no means confined to the land tax. We shall endeavour to obtain an opportunity to deal with his speech in another aspect in the course of the next few days.

WE are glad to be able to announce that in consequence of an article which appeared in this journal on Saturday last, a reorganisation of the Committee of the Unemployed has taken place, several of its members retiring. MR W. KENT, the Treasurer to the Committee informs us that the amount paid in to him on account of Saturday's canvas is £27 1s, of which £20 was paid into bank before banking hours expired, and that it is intended to publish a full statement of all the subscriptions so far as the accounts rendered to him show. This is to be regarded as satisfactory. We must repeat, however, that if the Committee, in their collections, suffer from our observations of Saturday, we cannot be held responsible. It was our clear duty to the public, and to the respectable and trustworthy members of the Committee to protect them from the evils arising from the association of unworthy persons.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

THE BATTLE OF ISANDULA.—It may be expected that Mr Tennyson, the poet laureate of England, will speak out shortly in language forcible, warm, and stirring in celebration of the brave deeds of our countrymen at Isandula and Rorke's Drift, and thus give fitting expression to the general admiration for the gallant deeds of the heroic few who bravely fought and nobly died in those bloody contests. In the meantime, we have pleasure in extracting from the Contemporary Review received by the mail, "The Battle of Isandula" from the pen of Mr Robert Buchanan, a now very well known poet. The lines convey a very vivid picture of the struggle, and no doubt will be read with interest. They appear in another column.

ACCIDENTS.—A man named Wm. Frost was received into the hospital on Saturday, suffering from a fractured thigh. He was riding at New Brighton when the horse suddenly bolted, and ran him between two trees, throwing him violently to the ground.—A man named Wm. Brown was also admitted to the institution on same day, suffering from a sprained ankle. It appeared that on the previous evening he was walking on the pavement in front of the Central Hotel when his foot slipped, and in falling he twisted his leg. Next day, finding himself much worse, he obtained admission to the hospital.

ST MARY'S, ADDINGTON.—The second of the series of winter entertainments for this parish will be given in the schoolroom on Tuesday (to-morrow), June 10. A good programme has been arranged. The proceeds of this entertainment will go to purchase New hymnals and psalters for St Mary's Choir; the books now in use being quite worn out. This object will doubtless commend itself to all interested in the Church, and draw a large audience to the entertainment to-morrow.

CITY COUNCIL COMMITTEES.—At a meeting of the Works Committee held this morning it was decided to replace the present wooden lamp post erected on the north side of the river at Barbadoes street, from which is suspended a kerosene lamp, with an iron post, the lamp to be lighted with gas. Two tenders were received for the timber to be used in Barbadoes street bridge, but both were rejected as informal. It was mentioned that Mr Smart had commenced the work of asphalting the footpath in lower High street. The Committee then adjourned. The Finance Committee met and passed the usual weekly accounts.

A GOOD SIGN.—Despite the outcry about hard times, there is evidently some loose change in cash. On Saturday one of the leading retail drapers of the town took upwards of £1500 in cash. It is satisfactory also to know that the principal "lines" dealt in were articles of everyday use rather than of luxury, tending to show that where requisite, the people can economise, but have sufficient money left to supply themselves liberally with the necessaries and comforts of life

THE MAILS.—The inward San Francisco mail arrived in harbour per s.s. Hawea on Saturday morning, the Christchurch portion being forwarded through by the 6.50 a.m. train.

TIMARU HARBOUR BOARD.—It has been decided to ask Mr L. Walker to consent to be nominated as the Geraldine Road Board member on the Timaru Harbour Board, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr W. K. M'Donald.

SOUTH RAKAIA.—The adjourned meeting re the plains water supply takes place at the Town Hall, South Rakaia, on Wednesday next. The modified scheme, as prepared by the County Engineer, will be laid before the meeting.

CANTERBURY CRICKET ASSOCIATION.—A meeting of the General Committee of the Association will be held at the Commercial Hotel on Wednesday next, at 8 o'clock, for the election of an Hon. Secretary, a Finance and Ground Committee, and a Match Committee for the coming season. As this is the most important meeting of the year a good attendance is requested.

A MISSTATEMENT.—In our issue of Saturday, a paragraph appeared, under the heading of arrests, in which it was stated that two men had been arrested on a charge of larceny. The announcement should have been that a man named Charles James was charged with the larceny of certain tools, the property of William Henry Miller. The accused was brought up at the Police Court on Saturday, and was remanded until this morning. The mistake arose from a misunderstanding between the sergeant in charge at the depôt and our reporter.

LECTURE.—A most instructive and enjoyable lecture was given on Wednesday evening last by Mr C. C. Howard in the district schoolroom, Kaiapoi Island S., the subject being Tennyson's "May Queen and its Teachings." The room was well filled with an appreciative audience. Mr J. Wood, of Kaiapoi, presided; and appropriate music was rendered at intervals by the Misses Wood and Smith (3) and Messrs W. S. and T. G. Smith. Votes of thanks were passed to the lecturer, chairman, and to all who had assisted in providing the evening's entertainment, and the proceedings terminated with the singing of the National Anthem.

CHURCH SERVICE IN THE HOSPITAL.—Church of England services were conducted at the Hospital yesterday morning by the Rev Mr Collins (late of Rakaia). There were about 30 patients present, and the singing was greatly assisted by harmonium accompaniments performed by Mr Turner. The harmonium was obtained by Mr Watt, the house steward, and we understand the Dean has promised to head a subscription list for the purchase of the instrument. It is also intended to establish a church choir amongst the officers and servants of the Hospital.

ACCIDENT AT ASHBURTON.—A painful accident happened yesterday morning to Mrs Winter, the mother of Mr H. T. Winter, of Wakanui, near Ashburton, whilst in the act of alighting from her carriage, previous to entering St. Stephen's Church. Just at that moment the horses attached to the carriage moved on a little, causing Mrs Winter to fall heavily to the ground. The unfortunate lady was immediately conveyed into Dr Ross' residence close by, where on examination it was found that the thigh bone had been broken. Much sympathy is felt for Mrs Winter having met with such a serious accident.

LONDON, JUNE 7.

The homeward mails via San Francisco were delivered to-day.

Consols are 97½.

At a Conservative meeting at Bury, the First Lord of the Admiralty absolutely denied that there was any difference of opinion between the British and French Governments in reference to the Egyptian question. They condemned the policy of the Khedive, but England and France had resolved, notwithstanding, to act quietly and safely, without precipitation.

The News from Cape Town to May 9 states that Cetewayo had made proposals for peace, but that the negotiations had failed in consequence of the refusal by the British authorities of any terms but unconditional surrenders. It is believed that Cetewayo and his whole forces are at the Lower Tugela.

PUBLIC MEETING AT PREBBLETON.

A public meeting of the ratepayers of the Lincoln Road district was held at the office, Prebbleton, at noon, on June 5. Mr H. W. Peryman, Chairman of the Board, occupied the chair.

The Chairman read the advertisement calling the meeting, and explained that it had been convened on a requisition numerously signed by ratepayers, praying that the road mentioned in the advertisement (through Mr Haydon's property) be closed, and one running through section 2558, also through Mr Haydon's land, be substituted in place thereof. He hoped that the ratepayers would calmly consider the question before the meeting, and that expressions of a personal character would not be indulged in. As Mr John Wills' name appeared at the head of the petition, he would call upon Mr Wills to move the first resolution.

Mr Wills said that it was his opinion that the road in question was of no public use, and that any money expended on it would be a useless expenditure of public funds. If any ratepayers could show that the road was useful, he would be satisfied that it should be opened. He considered that the Board should conserve their funds as much as possible, in order to have money to spend when bad times came. He would propose—"That, as provided by the 'Public Works Act, 1876,' the road running through sections Nos. 13962, 13963, 1349, and 1364 be closed, and a road running through section 2558 may be substituted in place thereof."

Mr John Sharp seconded the resolution.

The Chairman said that a letter had been received from the Christchurch City Council asking the Board to find work for the unemployed, and if roads in the district were formed the contractors who obtained the work would be in a position to employ labour, when some of the unemployed, if they would come out of the town, would most likely find work. The opinion was freely expressed that the "unemployed" did not want work unless they got it at a high rate of wages, and instances were named where men had refused to dig potatoes at a fair remuneration.

Mr Wills said that those he had seen working were not worth 5s per week.

Mr Leadley said that as yet he had heard no argument which would convince him that the road should be closed. As a fact, he would have used the road himself last week if it had been opened, as it was the nearest road by which to drive sheep towards Christchurch. Not only the interests of this district, but the whole surrounding country would be affected if it were stopped. If the road was wanted now, how much more would it be wanted in years to come. He considered that the funds of the Board should be specially applied in opening up thoroughfares.

Mr Wills thought that the present should be considered, not the future.

Mr David Galletly said that, as a freeholder in the district, he considered that he had a right to the use of all roads laid off on the map of the district.

Mr James Hampton expressed himself as entitled to the same right. If the road were closed he would fence off the road opposite his section, and he expected others would do the same.

Mr Haydon said that as he was interested in the question he would not try to influence the meeting, but would abide by its decision. He should abstain from voting either way. Looking at the plan of the locality, he could not see how anyone could say that the road if opened would be of any use. Referring to the letter of Mr Andrew Dawson, he said that the promise made to the Board of an exchange of land through section 2558 for road purposes, for the road running through sections 1349 and 1364 was not binding on him (Mr Haydon).

Mr William Prebble said that if the road was opened it would be of no earthly use. The Board should spend any funds they had to spare upon main roads, such as the Springs road and Lincoln road.

Several other ratepayers having expressed their opinion as to the advisability of opening or closing the road, the Chairman asked if any one had an amendment to propose.

As no one appeared to wish to do so, the resolution was put to the meeting. On a show of hands, there were 11 ayes and 18 noes. The resolution was therefore declared to be lost.

During the meeting, the Chairman read a letter from Mr Andrew Dawson, to the effect that he had in the year 1869 made an exchange with the Board for about 9¼ chains by 1 chain wide through section 2558, for the road which runs in front of sections 1349 and 1364.

The Chairman having thanked those present for the orderly manner in which the proceedings had been carried out, the meeting closed.

A FEMALE CRUSOE.

In a recent number of the San Francisco Call an account is given of an Indian woman who was accidentally abandoned on San Nicholas Island, off the coast of Southern California, and spent 18 years alone there before she was rescued. The fact of her existence was discovered by a man who went from the mainland to hunt for otters, and who found footprints sunk deeply in the ground. He was unable to follow up these indications till nearly three years, when one of a party who accompanied him came suddenly upon the object of their search. She was in a small circular enclosure made of brushwood, about 5ft high and 6ft in diameter, with a small opening on one side. She was clothed with a garment made of skins of the shag, a species of duck that can neither walk nor fly. This garment reached almost to her ankles when she stood erect. She was sitting cross-legged, skinning seal-blubber with a rude knife made of a piece of hoop iron driven into a piece of wood. There was no covering on her head, except a thick matted mass of hair, of yellowish brown colour, probably owing to exposure to the sun and the weather; it was short, as if the ends had rotted off. There were some wild dogs on the island, a few of which kept near her, and seemed to regard her as a mistress. She had lived on a plant resembling cabbage, called by Californians palo santo, and a root known by the name of corcomite, also blubber of the various kinds of seals, &c. She had a rude apparatus for catching shellfish, and strong fishing lines made of seal sinews, which seemed to indicate that she fished in the ocean. The expression of her face was pleasing, her features were regular, her complexion much fairer and her form more symmetrical than that of the Indian women on the adjoining mainland. Some suspect that she belonged to a tribe much further north. She could not understand anything said to her in any of the Indian dialects of South California, but she had a wonderful capacity for conversing by signs. She retained all her teeth, but they were worn low, supposed to be due to her chewing tough and hard articles of food. Her age appeared to be about 50 years. She bowed to all who came near her, greeting them with a smile. She freely accompanied her discoverers to their vessel. She showed singular dexterity in making water-vessels from grass and asphaltum, a substance which is plentiful both on the island and on the mainland. She seemed to recognise various appliances of civilisation. She died about seven weeks after reaching the mainland, partly from the effects of a fall, partly from dysentery, brought on by eating fruits and vegetables. Padre Gonzales, the superior of the mission of Santa Barbara, has sent her dress of shag-skins, her basket and implements to Rome, to the Museum of the Propaganda.

Miss Louisa Rymer, a young lady still in her teens, has carried off a chess prize of the Birkbeck Literary and Scientific Institution, London, from many masculine competitors.

According to the official report, more than £6,000,000 are paid annually by the United States for imported fibres—flax, hemp, and jute—and this, too, notwithstanding the fact that in no country in the world can these fibres be grown so well and cheaply.

ings had been carried out, the meeting closed.
