SANDER & SONS' EUCALYPTI EXTRACT.—Under the distinguished patronage of His Majesty the King of Italy, at Rome, according to communication received from the Consul-General for Italy, at Melbourne, upon instructions from the Minister of Foreign Affairs, dated 14th March, 1878.

Dr. Cruikshank, Health Officer for the City of Sandhurst, certifies to the Extract being the most reliable Remedy for External Inflammation, Bronchitis, Diphtheria, Affections of the Lungs, Chest, all Pains of Rheumatic nature, Neuralgia, etc., all Swellings, Bruises, Sprains, Wounds, Disorder of the Bowels, Diarrhœa, etc.

Epitome of declaration made before M. Cohen Esq., J.P., at Sandhurst, October, 1877:—The son of Mr. Baabe was hurt with an axe on the knee. After nine weeks' medical treatment it was declared necessary by Dr. Macgillivray to amputate the injured limb. At that juncture the extract was applied, and the wound speedily cured without amputation.

The daughter of Mr. Junghenn, suffering from disease of the bone, as pronounced by Drs. Atkinson and Boyd, was cured just as speedily. Cures of Whooping Cough, very severe Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Diphtheria Earache, Pains in the Head (neuralgia), Inflammation of the Eyes, and that of a severely injured foot; others of bad legs, wound on the arm with enormous swelling, of severe bruises and a sprained ancle (H. Brown)—in which case eight months' medical advice was of no avail—are reported by the Donald Times, Newcastle Morning Herald, Cooktown Courier, Yorke's Peninsula Advertiser, and others.

The extract is proved to be curative in disorders of the urinary organs. It is the surest curative agent and preventative of contagion in scarlet, typhoid, and intermittent fever. For particulars see testimonials accompanying each bottle.

Special Wholesale Agent—Mr. G. A. Pritchard, Mount Gambier. Retail by all Chemists.

CAUTION.

The genuine article is made up in vials, bearing on the labels our trade mark and signature. Other turpentine-like preparations of the gum, styled "Eucalypti Oil," are most dangerous, in consequence of their nature, for most of the diseases our Extract is recommended for, therefore ask for Sander and Sons' Extract in vials with our label, trade mark, and signature thereon. Every vial is accompanied by directions for use and reports of cures.

CORRESPONDENCE.

A letter was received from the Crown Lands Office informing the Board that arrangements had been made with Mr. MacIvor to visit the drainage district, and to report thereon.

A letter was also received from Crown Lands Office, informing the Board that a memorial re the land office had been carefully considered, and that the Government regret they could not grant the request of the memorialists, on the ground of the cost, and Millicent not being sufficiently central.

The Crown Lands Office also wrote re making of road to railway station, and informing the Board that the same would be tendered for immediately.

A circular was received from the Crown Lands Office re assignment of a number to drainage district under provisions of Dog Act, No. 6 of 1867.

A letter was received from Mr. A. J. Davies re reply to one sent re appointment as legal adviser.—The Secretary was instructed to see Mr. Davies on the matter.

Mr. T. Honan, jun., wrote, asking the Board to re-appoint him poundkeeper to pound yards on Section 260, Hundred of Hindmarsh, the same being now within the drainage district.—It was decided that Mr. Honan be appointed, the same to be gazetted. The Secretary was instructed to inform Mr. Honan that he must as soon as possible erect mangers for feeding stock impounded.

Mr. J. L. Waters wrote, asking permission to remove earth excavated from watering-place on drain 56.—Granted.

Mr. E. Bell wrote, asking the Board to make portion of road at the foot of Dalton's Hill.—To be attended to when in funds.

A letter was read from Mr. J. Pratt asking the Board to re-open drain into drain 56.—Mr. Pratt to be informed that he can reopen the drain and erect culvert on the usual conditions.

An application from Mr. J. Hester for a slaughtering licence was granted.

Mr. R. J. Holland also applied for a slaughtering licence, which was granted.

The Secretary laid balance-sheet and Auditors' report for the year ending June 30, 1879, on the table.—Approved.

The Secretary also laid on the table Gazette containing notice of assignment of number under Dog Act, 1867, to Drainage District, and called attention to the necessity of appointing a Registrar under said Act.—Resolved that Mr. Plunkett be appointed Registrar for District No. 169.

It was resolved that Mr. Plunkett be appointed Secretary, Collector, etc., for the ensuing year.

The Secretary read a letter from the Overseer of Works, Victoria District, to Messrs. A. Band & Co., suggesting that as they were spreading the maintenance metal for the Drainage Board, the whole cost of rolling same should be charged to the Drainage Board, and be repaid by the Road Board.—Approved.

The Secretary reported that he had seen Mr. Glen re travelling of sheep across Honeysuckle Flat, and that he (Mr. Glen) had instructed his men to travel sheep across the flat to the yards near Pinchgut.

Resolved that the time for receiving applications for depasturing licences be extended to 31st prox.

The Overseer of Works reported that he had authorized the extension of Contract 33 about two chains; also that old portion of road in Short-street required repairing, and that a few loads of sand should be laid along the fence in the same street.—To attend to same.

Pound returns to July 25 laid on the table.

Mr. Pratt waited on the Board and complained that drain 56 had been badly cleaned out, and that the contractors for roads had destroyed the embankment in part of drain 56 by removing stone; and also complained of the bad state of the road along drain 56.—The complaint re cleaning out drain 56 was not entertained, and the matter of making the road passable to stand over until the Board is in funds.

The Secretary was instructed to write to the Commissioner of Crown Lands re commonage in Mayurra and Hindmarsh.

The Secretary was instructed to telegraph to the Hons. Hawker and Glyde, asking them to support Mr. Krichauff's motion re sales of land.

Resolved—That the Ranger be instructed to impound no registered stock trespassing on roads, but turn same back on commonages, unless he receives instructions from the Board to impound.

MILLICENT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

July 29.

Mr. George Hopwood, of Port MacDonnell, left here this morning on his way from Robe to the Port, with his recently purchased draught stallion, Guy Fawkes, by Mr. G. Sim's horse Burns, until recently the property of Mr. Stockdale. Your readers will remember that a short time ago, Mr. Stockdale, of Robe, disposed of Guy Fawkes to his present owner for the sum of £250. Guy Fawkes was bred by Mr. Stockdale, and will be four years old this foaling; he is out of one of Mr. Stockdale's best mares, and in the Robe Show last September he beat everything opposed to him in the three-year-old class; and at the same show distanced all the horses opposed in the class for all comers. He is a black horse, and stands 17 hands high, possessed of great bone and muscle, and is also a good-tempered animal. I believe he is to stand at Mount Gambier, and his owner intends to take only a limited number of mares.

At the meeting of the Drainage Board yesterday, a letter was read from the Crown Lands Office with respect to the proposed visit of Mr. McIvor to this district, for the purpose of examining the drained land in the neighbourhood, and reporting thereon. The Board some time ago requested the Government to procure that gentleman's services to report as to the capabilities of the land; and according to the letter received, the Government have made arrangements with Mr. McIvor to visit Millicent at an early date. The time has not yet been fixed. Mr. Plunkett was re-appointed Secretary and Collector for the ensuing year. He was also appointed registrar of dogs for District No. 169.

Mr. Higinbotham and Mr. Stewart were again down the line to-day, and went in the direction of Beachport. I cannot say whether they went as far as Rivoli. They returned to the Mount. They proceed down the line again tomorrow.

The Athol, steamer, has arrived at Sydney from Hongkong with a large quantity of Japanese exhibits.

(From our Fat Contributor.)

RIVOLI RAILWAY SELECT COMMITTEE.

The Select Committee appointed by the House of Assembly on the motion of the Hon. Mr Glyde, and presumedly at the instance of Mr. W. Paltridge, to enquire into the manner in which the contract for the Rivoli Bay railway has been carried out, appears at present to be the prevailing topic of conversation in the district, and every person that buttonholes you on the subject, invariably winds up with the query—What will be the result? As one not in any way interested in the matter, not caring the value of a brass farthing who wins or who loses, or who is right or who is wrong in the passage at arms that is now taking place—I cannot refrain from saying that it would be manifestly unjust to all the parties concerned if any expression of opinion, detrimental or otherwise, were given on the subject at the present juncture. It is well known that it is one of the easiest things imaginable to get up an outcry against a Governmental department, or the officers connected therewith, particularly from the fact that the latter are precluded by the rules of the service from replying to the accusations brought against them; consequently, they have frequently to remain under the adverse opinion of the public until such time as a court of enquiry, or other tribunal, relieves their character from the stigma sought to be attached thereto. The Select Committee appointed to enquire into the shortcomings of the contractors for the above railway, and the conduct of the officers of the Public Works department in connection therewith, is a case in point; and it is somewhat difficult to surmise what possible good can result from the labors of the Committee, or what benefit the country will derive from the expenditure of the large sum necessary to defray the expenses of the Commission. The bone of contention appears to be that sand was used for ballast, and that the wording of the specifications were vague and unsatisfactory, and calculated to mislead intending contractors. Taking the latter item first, the following are the words complained of:—"The ballast is to consist of good clean gravel, or clear sharp sand, free from loam, clay, or any admixture of earth, hard limestone or other stone, broken so as to pass in every direction through a ring two and a half inches in diameter." And in the foregoing it is suggested by the Public Works department that no vagueness occurs, and in which opinion I decidedly concur. Now, without at all desiring to lay the flattering unction to myself that I am in any degree wiser than my neighbors, I yet arrive at the conclusion that no person having the slightest knowledge or experience in the reading or construing of specifications could possibly have mistaken the true intent and meaning of the words complained of. It appears to me, so far as my knowledge of the subject warrants me in offering an opinion, that it was intended that alternative prices should be given in the schedule annexed to the tender for the different descriptions of material specified, it being left to the contractor to use his own discretion as to the particular ballast he proposed to supply. For instance—A proposes using sand to ballast the line with, at the price of say one shilling per yard, and carries the total amount of same into bulk sum in his tender; should the department decide upon using either of the other materials then he would require for gravel two shillings, and for broken stone three shillings per yard, as mentioned in his schedule of prices; and the difference in the price between the sand which he has tendered to supply, and the gravel or stone, as the case may be, will have to be added to his tender. Now, where is the vagueness in the foregoing, calculated to mislead contractors? If any person were misled in the matter it must have been entirely his own fault, for if he did not understand the clause referred to a simple application to the Engineer-in-Chief or other official would have afforded him all the explanation he required. So far, therefore, the charge of vagueness with respect to the specifications I believe to be thoroughly unwarranted. There can be no question as to the fact that when an alternative tender, such as the foregoing, is sent in it rests entirely with the head of the department to select which of the materials mentioned should be used, and so long as the material contracted for is supplied I cannot see where the grievance can lie. Why the Engineer-in-Chief or any other officer of the department should attempt to mislead intending contractors as stated is almost incredible, for most persons would be under the impression that if any sympathy was shown it would be in favor of South Australian contractors, rather than Victorian. With regard to the question whether sand was the best material for ballasting the line is a matter in which I am not prepared to give an opinion upon. If sand has been used as ballast on several of the lines north of Adelaide and found to answer the purpose required there is no valid reason why it should not have been tried on the Rivoli Bay line. Coming back to the Messrs. Millar, if these gentlemen tendered to supply sand, and did so, where is the reason for the present outcry? That the line has been well constructed is generally admitted by those who have had the opportunity of travelling over it, and I have heard it stated that it is one of the smoothest and easiest running lines in the colony, a convincing proof that the work was well done, or the line would not have stood the trying ordeal to which it has been subjected during the recent unfavorable weather. If the Messrs. Cock and Paltridge had tendered to supply sand they would have done so, and not a word would have been heard of the present outcry. Had the Messrs. Millar failed in carrying out the work there would not have been any Select Committee applied for; and I incline to your Millicent correspondent's theory, that the object originally intended was not an investigation of the Rivoli Bay line—with respect to sand being used as ballast, if of the right description and any means could be adopted to prevent its being blown away, no better material could be found for maintenance purposes. It is generally admitted by those who have had any experience in the matter that the softer the material, provided it is of the proper description, the better and cheaper the line can be kept in repair, and for this reason sand, if placed on a strata of broken metal, forms a level solid bed for the sleepers to rest upon, and the result is there is less noise, and less of that disagreeable and unpleasant tremulous motion in the carriages, that is so frequently experienced when a train is passing over a line laid on broken metal; and the sand being of a soft nature the sleepers and rails yield somewhat to the passing train, and which tends materially to diminish the oscillation of the engine and carriages, and the wear and tear of the carriages and rails. I believe that I am not far wrong in the foregoing views that I have put forward with respect to the question now being investigated by the Select Committee; but in order that I may not be misunderstood in the matter I wish distinctly to state that I am not acquainted with any officer connected with the public works department, and the Messrs. Millar are strangers to me. It is fortunate, both for the Government and the contractors, that a gentleman of such acknowledged ability as Mr. Higinbotham should have undertaken to report upon the line, as his strict impartiality and integrity is well known to all contractors who have ever been employed under him.

In my last I mentioned there was no news to send you. I regret that what I have to chronicle to-day is of a very painful character. The mail for Narracoorte left the Prince of Wales' on Wednesday morning at the usual hour, and when about two miles from Penola, one of the axles broke, turning the coach over on its side, and precipitating the driver and outside passengers on to the road. On the box seat, between the driver and a gentleman passenger proceeding to Narracoorte, was one of the Misses Morris, a daughter of Mr. Thomas Morris, of Kalangadoo. The driver and other passenger escaped unhurt, but the young lady was unfortunately thrown under the vehicle and apparently severely injured. On the news reaching Penola, Mr. MacKeand at once started in his buggy with assistance, and brought Miss Morris to his house, at the same time sending a message to her parents and telegraphing for Dr. Addison. The inside passengers, I understand, also escaped unhurt. Since writing the above, I am glad to be able to state that Dr. Addison's opinion of Miss Morris is favorable.

The funeral of the late Father Kehoe took place on Wednesday afternoon at the New Cemetery, and was largely attended by all classes and denominations of the community, as a mark of respect to the memory of the deceased gentleman.

The other matter is the case of our unfortunate medico, Dr. Henry, who is seriously ill, and it is apparently doubtful whether he will pull through.

Has your compositor or reader any special dislike to the Fat Contributor? Great was my astonishment this morning at finding myself turned, at my time of life, into "Apollo." Like Coaney Delany, when they wished to make a knight of him—"I'm disgraced for ever." Apollo indeed! A pretty "Apollo" I'd make. I said "Otello." Pray, Mr. Editor, give instructions to the P.D. to put a little more water in that particular compo's ink.

NOTABLE WINTERS.

We quote the following from a recent issue of the Hawick Advertiser, a Scottish paper:—"The following account of severe winters, culled from old weather records, may be interesting at the close of this the longest winter of the present century. In 401 the Black Sea was entirely frozen over. In 763 not only the Black Sea but the Straits of the Dardanelles were frozen over; the snow in some places rose to fifty feet high. In 822 the great rivers of Europe, the Danube, the Elbe, &c., were so hard frozen as to bear heavy wagons for a month. In 860 the Adriatic was frozen. In 991 everything was frozen, the crops failed, and famine and pestilence closed the year. In 1067 most of the travellers in Germany were frozen to death on the roads. In 1134 the Po was frozen from Cremona to the sea; the winesacks were burst and the trees split by the action of the frost, with immense noise. In 1237 the Danube was frozen to the bottom, and remained long in that state. In 1317 the crops wholly failed in Germany; wheat, which some years before sold in England at 6s. the quarter, rose to £2. In 1308 the crops failed in Scotland, and such a famine ensued that the poor were reduced to feed on grass, and many perished miserably in the fields. The successive winters 1422-3-4 were uncommonly severe. In 1568 the wine distributed to the soldiers was cut with hatchets. In 1683 it was excessively cold. Most of the hollies were killed. Coaches drove along the Thames, the ice of which was 11 inches thick. In 1709 occurred the cold winter; the frost penetrated the earth three yards into the ground. In 1716 booths were erected on the Thames. In 1744 and 1745 the strongest ale in England exposed to the air was covered in less than fifteen minutes with ice an eighth of an inch thick. In 1794, during one wild stormy night, ten score of sheep and twenty shepherds perished within a limited range in Scotland. In 1809, and again in 1812, the winters were remarkably cold. In 1814 there was a fair on the frozen Thames. In 1837 the frost was intense, and many sheep, shepherds, and travellers were lost in the snow, which lay over eleven weeks on the ground. In 1861 thermometers for five successive nights were below zero, and the rose-growers in England—Messrs. Rivers, Wood, and Francis—lost thousands of roses, and Messrs. Peter Lawson & Son, Edinburgh, lost five thousand pounds worth of conifers. The winter of 1878-79 will figure largely in the annals of curling."

ALONE FOR EIGHTEEN YEARS.

In a recent number of the San Francisco Call an account is given of an Indian woman who was accidentally abandoned on San Nicolas Island, off the coast of Southern California, and spent eighteen years alone there before she was rescued. The fact of her existence was discovered by a man who went from the mainland to hunt for otters, and who found footprints sunk deeply in the ground. He was unable to follow up these indications till nearly three years, when one of a party who accompanied him came suddenly upon the object of their search. She was in a small circular enclosure made of brushwood, about five feet high, and six feet in diameter, with a small opening on one side. She was clothed with a garment made of skins of the shag, a species of duck that can neither walk nor fly. This garment reached almost to her ankles when she stood erect. She was sitting cross-legged, skinning sealblubber with a rude knife made of a piece of hoop iron driven into a piece of wood. There was no covering on her head, except a thick matted mass of hair, of yellowish-brown colour, probably owing to exposure to the sun and the weather; it was short, as if the ends had rotted off. There were some wild dogs on the island, a few of which kept near her, and seemed to regard her as a mistress. She had lived on a plant resembling cabbage, called by Californians palo-santo, and a root known by the name of corcomite, also blubber of the various kinds of seals, &c. She had a rude apparatus for catching shellfish, and strong fishing lines made of seal sinews, which seemed to indicate that she fished in the ocean. The expression of her face was pleasing, her features were regular, her complexion much fairer, and her form more symmetrical than that of the Indian women on the adjoining mainland. Some suspect that she belonged to a tribe much further north. She could not understand anything said to her in any of the Indian dialects of South California, but she had a wonderful capacity for conversing by signs. She retained all her teeth, but they were worn low, supposed to be due to her chewing tough and hard articles of food. Her age appeared to be about 50 years. She bowed to all who came near her, greeting them with a smile. She freely accompanied her discoverers to their vessel. She showed singular dexterity in making water-vessels from grass and asphaltum, a substance which is plentiful both on the island and the mainland. She seemed to recognise various appliances of civilization. She died about seven weeks after reaching the mainland, partly from the effects of a fall, and partly from dysentery, brought on by eating fruits and vegetables. Padre Gonzalez, the Superior of the Mission of Santa Barbara, has sent her dress of shagskins, her basket and implements, to Rome, to the Museum of the Propaganda.

The South Australian Court at the Sydney Exhibition is said to be one of the best situated in the whole building. It occupies a large area at the eastern end of the nave. The main exit to the machinery halls is directly opposite, also the Courts of France, Germany, Austria, and Belgium. The interior is most cheerfully and artistically decorated. From the Court there is a passage to the balconies, from which there is a most enchanting view. No Adelaide exhibits are arriving, but everything is in readiness for them; however there is ample time.

A clergyman who was annoyed by the squeaking shoes of his parishioners, remarked that some people had "too much music in their soles."

A DARING AND SUCCESSFUL SWINDLER.

We extract the following from the Argus of July 24:—"Unwelcome as the intelligence may be, there is no disguising the fact that some of the most skilful London criminals have already made their appearance in the colonies, and intend to turn their talent and experience to account without delay. A short time ago private and confidential intelligence reached Melbourne to the effect that as the time for the opening of the Sydney Exhibition drew near a sudden influx of 'swell mobsmen,' 'cracksmen,' and other successful members of the criminal class in the great metropolis might be expected in New South Wales and subsequently in Victoria. There is no doubt, however, that one of the fraternity has anticipated the authorities to a certain extent, and has commenced preliminary operations in Melbourne. A series of skilfully planned and as cunningly executed frauds were perpetrated in Melbourne on Tuesday, and the mode in which they were carried out is so unlike the style of any of the criminals known to exist in our midst that there is very little room for doubting the surmise as to their being the work of a new arrival. The facts connected with the various cases are, as far as can be gleaned, as follows:—On Tuesday afternoon a stylishly fitted equipage drew up at the establishment of Mr. T. Gaunt, in Bourke-street, and a fashionably attired man, leaving the horses in charge of a groom in livery, entered the shop. He produced his visiting card, which bore the name of Dr. W. Bonnefin, of Fitzroy-street, St. Kilda, and confidentially remarking that his wife and family were up the country, but would return the next day, intimated that he desired to purchase some valuable presents with which to surprise them. After spending some time inspecting the various articles of jewellery placed before him, he ultimately expressed his approval of a watch and chain valued at £40, and a number of other elegant trifles, the value of which amounted in the aggregate to a considerable sum. He directed the assistant to pack the articles up and forward them to his private residence, where he said he would pay for them; but there naturally being some demur to making a first transaction with a customer a credit entry, he at once proposed that the assistant should go home with him in the carriage and bring the money back with him. The suggestion was accepted, and the assistant, having the jewellery with him, was driven out to St. Kilda. On reaching the house, a building of some pretensions, the assistant noticed the name 'Dr. Bonnefin' engraved upon an elaborate door-plate, and this fact at once allayed any suspicion in his mind. He accompanied the supposed medical man into the house, and having received a cheque for the amount of the invoice, he left the jewellery and returned to town. Nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when the cheque was returned as valueless. The detective authorities were at once apprised of the circumstances of the case, and their enquiries soon elicited the fact that a deliberate swindle had been effected—a supposition that was speedily put beyond all question when a number of other jewellers in quick succession arrived at the office, each of whom stated that he had been victimised in a similar manner by the same thief. Further investigation led to the discovery that the thief was merely a lodger at the house he pretended to be his own. It appears that some short time ago he rented apartments, for which he agreed to pay ten guineas a week, as he intended to reside there with his wife and family, who were to shortly join him. As he represented that he wished to commence practice at once, the proprietor of the house readily gave her consent to his name-plate being affixed on the outside of the premises. The carriage, horses, and livery servant he hired from a livery stable, and so the deception was made complete. It is anticipated that the goods he has obtained in the manner described will reach in the aggregate to the value of some £400 or £500. Before 9 o'clock yesterday morning he succeeded in pawning a quantity of the plunder, but the major portion of it has not yet been traced, nor has any clue so far been obtained to the whereabouts of the thief. The detectives are busily engaged in investigating the matter, and feel confident that their endeavors to arrest the offender will prove successful."

The Argus of the next day states:—"At present no clue has been obtained to the whereabouts of the successful swindler who, under the name of 'Dr. Bonnefin,' succeeded in defrauding so many jewellers on Tuesday last. Some portion of the property has, however, been recovered, as the detectives yesterday succeeded in tracing the major portion of the jewellery obtained from Mr. Moses Goldstein's, who was the first to detect the swindle, and the clock obtained by the offender from Mrs. Spann was found at the house at St. Kilda, in which he had taken the apartments. The property he obtained from Messrs. Wenzel and Enes has also been found in a pawnbroker's shop. The authorities believe that the swindler, who is evidently thoroughly accomplished in his nefarious profession, has not left Melbourne; and as it has been ascertained that a woman is concerned in the disposal of the plunder, there is some ground for believing that he will soon be brought to justice. It is rumoured that several jewellers beyond those who have reported their losses to the police have been victimized, and judging from the consummate skill with which the whole affair was planned and carried into execution it is very probable that the surmise is correct. It has now transpired that it was only on Tuesday last that the fellow engaged the apartments at St. Kilda, that he paid five shillings on account of the ten guineas per week that he agreed to pay, and that he immediately affixed his name-plate on the exterior of the house. He then appears to have set out upon his plundering expedition, and with the exception of one or two flying visits which he paid during the day with persons whom he was swindling he was of course never seen again."

DR. BROWNE'S EXPEDITION TO THE NORTH.

It will be remembered that last year Dr. W. J. Browne, the well-known squatter and pioneer colonist, started a party of men under the leadership of Mr. Wood, who was formerly senior officer of the Government parties engaged in the construction of the central section of the Port Augusta and Port Darwin telegraph, with sheep and other live stock, for the purpose of establishing a station in the Northern Territory. Mr. Wood has been successful in this last undertaking, and having on the way, in order to water the animals under his charge, sunk a number of wells that will be most useful in future to persons travelling with stock on the same route, he has applied to the Government for reimbursement for outlay upon work that will be of public benefit. The claim is reasonable enough; but Dr. Browne, on being advised of it, while appreciating this regard for his interests on the part of the leader of the expedition, at once resolved on not receiving any payment for the expenditure incurred in well-sinking, for reasons stated in the following letter, addressed to his manager and attorney in Adelaide:—"74, Gloucester-road, South Kensington, London. My dear Price—In Mr. Wood's letter from Tennant Creek, dated October 19, 1878, he writes:—'I have had many watering places made between Charlotte waters and Alice Springs, and north of the latter place I am sinking a line of wells to enable the sheep to get well forward before the rains. On this latter point I would mention that many of the watering-places made by me have been on an inexpensive and temporary scale, suitable only to our requirements; but in places where I have sunk actual wells I thought it a great injustice that one private individual should be at so much trouble and cost in executing work of a permanent benefit to the public generally, and the Government in particular. I have therefore been in correspondence with the Government, and they agree under certain conditions as to the character of my improvements (with which it is unnecessary to trouble you) to pay me £300, or £100 each, for three wells—no results, no payments. I am aware of Mr. W. J. Browne's objection to seeking aid from the Government, but in this case it is we who are doing a useful public work for which such a favorable opportunity seldom occurs, and I trust he will not disapprove of my endeavour to save the expedition some outlay. But for the subsidy I should sink my wells in channels of water to save expense, and after one flood the road would be as bad as ever.' I am sorry that Mr. Woods has made this application to the Government, although I cannot but feel obliged to him for such attention to my pecuniary interest, and there is an apparent reason for his application, as he is making the wells more permanent than needed for my expedition. But as I was prompted to send this expedition across the continent to promote the settlement of the Northern Territory, which has so long been an incubus upon the resources of South Australia, more as a token of gratitude for the great success that has attended my career as a settler in South Australia than from any pecuniary results, which, however, I ultimately anticipate to reap, fully believing the Northern Territory is most admirably adapted for pastoral occupation by both pure merino sheep, cattle, and horses. The receipt, however, of any Government aid does to my mind mar the pleasure of my enterprise, and therefore I wish you to request the Government to allow you to return to them any money that may have been paid me, or if none has been received please thank the Government on my part, and say I do not wish to receive it, as I shall be fully compensated by the knowledge that my expenditure has in any way facilitated the occupation by others of our great Northern Territory.—Yours sincerely, W. J. Browne."

THE ROMAN CATHOLIC EDUCATION QUESTION IN NEW SOUTH WALES.

Archbishop Vaughan's pastoral letter to the Roman Catholics, which was read in the Sydney churches on Sunday, is a very lengthy document. The opening paragraph says:—"Having been convinced by many signs from many quarters that existing dangers to the Catholic education are steadily increasing so as to become absolute perils to religion, and that unfairness to Catholics is developing into absolute injustice, we the Archbishop and Bishops having jurisdiction in New South Wales, who are responsible to God for the souls of parents and children confided to our care, deemed it our duty to meet and take counsel together regarding the present condition of affairs, so that we might then by the authority of our united voice instruct, warn, and direct you as to your position and your duties with regard to the education of Catholic children." It then goes on to say:—"Let it be borne in mind that this is distinctly a religious question. With politics as such it was never our task to meddle. We prefer to do our work in peace and avoid the contention of rival parties. But, when not justice alone, but the future of religion itself, is essentially bound up with a certain position—when the question of education is in point of fact the great religious question of the day, we should be prevaricating against our bounden duty, and should prove ourselves unfitted for our trust, were we to hold our peace, did we not at the present juncture set forth the teaching of the Church with great distinctness, and point out to you, dearly beloved, with unmistakable clearness, your duties as interpreted by that teaching, and believe it to be the duty of the Catholic body not to rest until they have been placed on an equal footing with their fellow colonists." It further states:—"The design of withdrawing primary schools from the control of the Church, and the exertions made to carry this design into effect, are therefore inspired by a spirit of hostility towards her, and by the desire of extinguishing among the people the divine light of our holy faith. Those who pretend that the Church ought to abdicate or suspend her control, and her salutary action upon the primary schools, in reality ask her to disobey the commands of her Divine Author, and to be false to the charge she has received from God of guiding all men to salvation; and in whatever country this pernicious design of removing the schools from ecclesiastical authority should be entertained and carried into execution, and the young thereby exposed to the danger of losing their faith, there the Church would be in duty bound not only to use her best efforts, and to employ every means to secure for them the necessary Christian education and instruction, but, moreover, would feel herself obliged to warn the faithful, and to declare that no one can in conscience frequent such schools, as being adverse to the Catholic Church." Finally, after a strong condemnation of a secular system of education, the pastoral exhorts clergymen to warn parents who, through a spirit of indifference or worldliness, are exposing their children to proximate danger and ruin, and tempting the anger of Almighty God.

TESTIMONIAL.— Manchester, June 18th, 1877.

To Mr. Page D. Woodcock, Norwich.

Sir,—I have found your Pills an excellent preparation for the Constipation and Flatulency so common in both sexes. They possess great advantages over other Pills. Their uniformity in strength, the smallness of the dose, and the certainty of their action commend them to those who require a Tonic to assist digestion, relieve Wind in the Stomach, exert a special influence on the Liver, and also the peristaltic motion of the Bowels, resulting from chronic Indigestion, &c. The more my experience in their varied applicability extends the more their beneficial effects appear, and many households have found a great friend in your preparation for the promotion of a healthy digestion. Their favourable action are all that could be wished for.—I am, faithfully yours,

CONSULTS—

On all affections of the Nervous System (no matter from what cause arising).

On all broken-down constitutions.

On all diseases arising from early indiscretions.

On Gout.

On Rheumatism.

IN these colonies, those excesses which we have indulged in "hot youth" tell upon us with fearful interest.

Our regrets are useless, our repinings futile. The sole idea should be the chances we possess of remedying the ills we already have, or combating the effects likely to result. Hide it as he may, put on as good an exterior as he can, still is the victim conscious that he is a living lie, and that sooner or later his vices will discover him to the world. Our faith, our obligations to society at large, the welfare of our future offspring, and the duty we owe to ourselves forbids procrastination, and points out to us, not to wait till the ravages break out in our constitutions.

Before negotiating with a merchant, before engaging with a confidential clerk, before employing a barrister, a careful man makes enquiries as to their standing, their length of occupancy or residence; and, in the case of a legal adviser, both as to his legal qualifications and as to his capabilities of transacting the individual business he consults him upon. Strange to say, however, in the selection of a medical man, the sufferer frequently omits these necessary precautions and without regard to the fitness, qualification, experience, and ability for the particular ailment requiring treatment, he consults the nearest man, whose experience and practice, perhaps, lies in quite an opposite direction.

Is it astonishing that so many are driven mad, are ruined in health, and are bankrupt in spirits, hope, and money? Have I not for years pointed out to them that I, Dr. L. L. Smith, am the only legally qualified medical man advertising in the colonies? Have I not also prosecuted, at my own expense, these very quacks, and exposed the various nostrums they are selling—such as Phosphodyne, Essence of Life, &c.—and had them analysed and found them to consist of "burnt sugar and flavouring matter," and the certificates I have PROVED to be all forgeries. It is for this reason that I step out of the ethics of the profession and advertise, to give those who require the services of my branch an opportunity of knowing they can consult a legally qualified man, and one, moreover, who has made this his especial duty.

Dr. L. L. Smith is the only legally qualified medical man advertising, and he has been in Melbourne 24 years in full practice on Nervous Diseases

ALONE FOR EIGHTEEN YEARS.

In a recent number of the San Francisco Call an account is given of an Indian woman who was accidentally abandoned on San Nicolas Island, off the coast of Southern California, and spent eighteen years alone there before she was rescued. The fact of her existence was discovered by a man who went from the mainland to hunt for otters, and who found footprints sunk deeply in the ground. He was unable to follow up these indications till nearly three years, when one of a party who accompanied him came suddenly upon the object of their search. She was in a small circular enclosure made of brushwood, about five feet high, and six feet in diameter, with a small opening on one side. She was clothed with a garment made of skins of the shag, a species of duck that can neither walk nor fly. This garment reached almost to her ankles when she stood erect. She was sitting cross-legged, skinning sealblubber with a rude knife made of a piece of hoop iron driven into a piece of wood. There was no covering on her head, except a thick matted mass of hair, of yellowish-brown colour, probably owing to exposure to the sun and the weather; it was short, as if the ends had rotted off. There were colour, probably owing to exposure to the sun and the weather; it was short, as if the ends had rotted off. There were some wild dogs on the island, a few of which kept near her, and seemed to regard her as a mistress. She had lived on a plant resembling cabbage, called by Californians palo-santo, and a root known by the name of corcomite, also blubber of the various kinds of seals, &c. She had a rude apparatus for catching shellfish, and strong fishing lines made of seal sinews, which seemed to indicate that she fished in the ocean. The expression of her face was pleasing, her features were regular, her complexion much fairer, and her form more symmetrical than that of the Indian women on the adjoining mainland. Some suspect that she belonged to a tribe much further north. She could not understand anything said to her in any of the Indian dialects of South California, but she had a wonderful capacity for conversing by signs. She retained all her teeth, but they were worn low, supposed to be due to her chewing tough and hard articles of food. Her age appeared to be about 50 years. She bowed to all hard articles of food. Her age appeared to be about 50 years. She bowed to all who came near her, greeting them with a smile. She freely accompanied her discoverers to their vessel. She showed singular dexterity in making water-vessels from grass and asphaltum, a substance which is plentiful both on the island and the mainland. She seemed to recognise various appliances of civilization. She died about seven weeks after reaching the mainland, partly from the effects of a fall, and partly from dysentery, brought on by eating fruits and vegetables. Padre Gonzalez, the Superior of the Mission of Santa Barbara, has sent her dress of shagskins, her basket and implements, to Rome, to the Museum of the Propaganda
