

Japan Blamed For U. S. Boom In Opium Sales

Heroin Invasion Of America Laid To Tientsin Rule

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Keeping pace with Japan's invasion of China, an opium invasion of the United States is well under way from China, largely from Japanese occupied areas.

Officials of the state and treasury departments are watching it carefully, seeking to trace its sources and to destroy it.

The momentum it has gathered may be measured in statements made by Stuart J. Fuller, the state department's veteran expert on the opium traffic.

FROM JAPANESE AREAS

"The evanescent possession of this government," he said, "indicates that the heroin found in the illicit traffic in the United States has, since 1935, come in large measure from the Japanese controlled area of Tientsin."

"Practically all of the smoking opium found in the illicit traffic in the United States comes from China and a blend of Chinese and Iranian opiums. Part of it is prepared in or near Shanghai, part in South China and part in North China." ("This territory is largely under control of Japan.")

The opium traffic in the United States during the last six months of last year, he disclosed, totaled more than the amount seized during all of 1937.

WRATH GRAPES' BACKFIRE: Pro-America Flays 'Smear' Books, Asks Transients Be Denied Relief

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21 (AP)—Speakers at a special, state-wide meeting of Pro-America denounced recent books dealing with California's migrant problem, called for a cessation of relief for transients, and praised efforts of individual farmers to better the conditions under which migratory help has lived.

Attended by 500 persons, including former Governor Meriam, the banquet was announced as specifically for the purpose of refuting the pictures of migrant conditions as portrayed in "John Steinbeck's 'Grapes of Wrath'" and "deliberately destructive propaganda."

While Fuller, as a state department official, not to advance a position of non-interference, some persons have said the Japanese are purposely increasing the number of transients in the occupied areas in China in order to break down the morale of the Chinese and make them more amenable to Japanese rule. This statement was made by Chinese representatives.

Giant California Clipper Undergoes Final Air Tests

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21 (AP)—The 72-passenger California Clipper underwent final tests in the waters off San Francisco today, before leaving for New Zealand via Honolulu, 4 p.m. tomorrow on an inaugural survey flight over the route which Pan-American Airways has asked the Civil Aeronautics Authority to approve for commercial service.

Twenty-five persons, including the crew and three paying passengers, were on board. Technical observers for the air line and for the government will accompany the ship.

STORM KILLS 7

LONDON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Seven persons were killed by lightning and 18 injured tonight when a sudden rainstorm swept London.

'Wild' Woman's Homesite Is Located

An almost-forgotten story of an early day female Robinson Crusoe who for 18 years braved the perils of the wilderness on Santa Barbara island off Santa Barbara's coast was revived yesterday by the return of an expedition from the Channel Islands.

Arthur Woodward, director of history and anthropology of the Los Angeles museum, said the person he was looking for was located at the site of the old, occupied by the Indian woman, who later was captured at the Santa Barbara Island Mission as Juana Maria.

The woman was left alone on the island in 1835, but a tradition that had been sent from Santa Barbara to remove the Indians from the place. Just as the boat was being

DADDY KILLED 'THEIR MAMA'

Kelly Minick, Jr., ten (ten), comforted his sisters, Elizabeth (eleven), three, and Margaret, six, after their mother, Mrs. Mary Minick, 37, was found shot to death at their farm home near West Chester, Pa. Police said the father, Kelly Minick, Sr., 38, told them he killed his wife because "she ran around and didn't take care of the children," and then clubbed her brother, Irvin Woolfery, 29, to death when he went to her aid.

FACTORY HEAD GOES TO JAIL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (INS)—The Wages-Hours administration started its "cracking down" drive today when it obtained an order for the arrest of a factory head in Elkins, W. Va., for violation of the act.

Lerner, head of trouser manufacturing plants at Buchanan, W. Va., and Phillipsburg, Pa., was the first man to be jailed under the law. "It was charged Lerner paid workers less than 25 cents an hour."

Striking at the long-established practice of paying southern workers less than northern labor on ground living costs in the south are lower. Wage-Hour Administrator Andrews tonight, in a decision of far-reaching import, ruled wage differentials in the hosiery industry are unjustified.

RESERVISTS CALLED

ATHENS, Aug. 21 (AP)—Reservists called to the front in all specialized branches of the Greek army were called today to general training.

Barbara visited the island and captured the half-wild woman, who could speak the language only of her tribe, and she was then dead. She died six weeks later and was buried at the Santa Barbara mission.

Woodward said the expedition returning today also had found what appeared to be the "mist" of early-day California on Santa Cruz and Santa Rosa islands, he said, he found 1,700 fine stone drills used to make beads, which served as the currency for the early day Indians.

Santa Rosa, Santa Cruz, San Nicholas and San Miguel islands were visited during which nearly 200 village sites were inspected and 1,000 human remains were obtained. Woodward said.

3 Sweep To Deaths In Bridge Collapse

WEST BOLDING, Wisc., Aug. 21 (INS)—Roaring flood waters, caused by a sudden cloudburst, carried three persons to their deaths tonight when a bridge they were standing on collapsed.

Mrs. Marcia Cotton, 35, her daughter Rachel, eight, and Clarence Lamoni, 42, all of East Haver, were dropped into the Breakneck brook after the cloud-burst, flooded farms, highways, washed out bridges and cut off communications with several communities.

Britain Shocked By Hitler Stroke: Cabinet To Meet

LONDON, Aug. 21 (INS)—British government circles were thrown into consternation tonight by news from Berlin of a momentous Soviet-German non-aggression agreement, but it was completely agreed that the danger of an immediate European war has thus been averted.

Instantly the word was conveyed here, Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Halifax were awakened and informed, and the premier ordered an urgent telephone call to British Ambassador Sir William Seeds in Moscow in order to get an official, first hand account of the scope of this precedent-shattering accord.

CALLS BOMBHELL

One cabinet minister said: "This is the most devastating bombshell thrown in the diplomatic war of nerves that has been going on in Europe for the last two years."

All sources were agreed, however, that immediate war—which had to some appeared inevitable earlier in the day—had been averted for the moment.

The new agreement postpones war, political circles concurred in the sense that until Germany has had time to complete her negotiations with Russia it is inevitable that the war will be postponed a second time, as to whether she wishes to negotiate with the reich now, realizing the odds she would have to face are much greater than they would have been previously.

Chamberlain's publicists, it was said, were working to realize that whereas she might have had a very wide and general alliance, the fact that she is now faced with the fact that she will be forthcoming from Russia.

CHAMBERLAIN ASSAILED

"While certain official quarters were inclined to treat the agreement as a maneuver designed to bring Anglo-French efforts to align against the democracies in the so-called 'peace front,' critics of Chamberlain vociferously declared that the premier was responsible by dilatory tactics for losing his greatest diplomatic battle to Chancellor Adolf Hitler."

Chamberlain's publicists, it was said, were working to realize that whereas she might have had a very wide and general alliance, the fact that she is now faced with the fact that she will be forthcoming from Russia.

WORLD REACTIONS AT GLANCE

Announcement last night in Berlin of a momentous non-aggression agreement between Nazi Germany and Communist Russia fell like a bombshell in European diplomatic circles. It was the consensus in many European capitals that this averts, for the time being at least, the danger of an immediate war.

WORLD REACTIONS AT GLANCE

British government circles "could scarcely believe it," and Premier Chamberlain ordered an urgent phone call to Ambassador Seeds in Moscow immediately to get an official report of the scope of the treaty.

PARIS—The Quai D'Orsay refrained from official comment but seemed inclined to view the agreement as a maneuver and to treat the official German announcement with a trace of disbelief.

ROME—Unofficial circles in Italy regarded the treaty as "neutralizing" aggression and removing the last barriers to Germany's acquisition of Danzig and extension of the Nazi hegemony in Europe. The pact announcement was greeted with "extreme satisfaction," one official declared "unofficially," adding that the agreement "assures the peace of Europe."

WARSAW—

Political quarters in Poland were inclined to be skeptical of the final result of Russo-German non-aggression negotiations.

DANZIG—

News of the German-Soviet non-aggression accord was received with surprise and jubilation last night by Free City Nazi circles, and opinion was expressed that following actual signing of the treaty Germany will present Poland with a 24-hour ultimatum to hand Danzig over to the reich.

BERLIN—

The Nazi press triumphantly hailed the German-Soviet non-aggression accord, and apparently in order to show Britain and France it would be hopeless to fight for Poland without Russian aid, the papers published two or more pages describing the invincibility of the Rhine fortifications.

TOKYO—

Japanese Premier Hiranuma and Foreign Minister Arita conferred with their expert aides following news of the German-Soviet non-aggression agreement, and, as a result, there will be an easing of the Japanese attitude towards Britain, it was reported.

BUDAPEST—

Hungary received the news with complete surprise, and it is generally assumed that Poland's fate now is sealed, as it is believed Britain and France now will be unable to assist any of the smaller powers of central and eastern Europe against Nazi ambitions.

Smash-Up Of Major European Alliances Seen As Result Of Sensational Berlin-Moscow Step

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (INS)—Consummation of the Soviet-German non-aggression pact, upon which Germany announced an agreement tonight, will spell the doom of the projected Anglo-French-Soviet "peace front," official circles here said.

A Polish embassy spokesman declared, however, the signing by Germany and Russia of a pledge not to fight each other will in no way weaken Poland's resolve to resist forcibly any German attempt to annex Danzig or the Polish corridor.

The Anglo-French-Soviet pacts were calculated to bring Russia 100,000 troops and tremendous resources of war materials to Poland's aid in event Fuhrer Hitler elected to force the Danzig issue.

Conceivably, officials said, the pact could demolish the anti-Nazi coalition of the League of Nations, which Germany, Italy and Japan have erected their "new order" policy.

A German pledge not to attack Russia, experts pointed out, would remove the last advantage it derived from adherence to the alliance and give the

Germany, Russia To Sign Non-Aggression Pact Bombshell

Neutrality Of Soviet In Poland Row Gives Fuehrer Advantage

There is to be no conflict as a result of the Polish-German dispute over Danzig and Posen (the Polish corridor) which appeared certain vast Russia will be neutral.

The position of Poland, which has been counting on the strength of what Germany calls the economic sanctuaries of the "peace front," appeared to have been weakened greatly.

German soldiers were marching on the Polish frontier, and now it seemed certain that if they are called upon to march toward they will not have to worry about the possibility of encountering Russian troops somewhere in middle Poland.

Death Kpell Of French, British Efforts To Win Stalin's Backing Told By Berlin Master Stroke

BERLIN, Aug. 21 (AP)—Germany upset the whole structure of the tense middle European situation by announcing shortly after midnight tonight she will conclude a non-aggression pact with Russia.

It is there is to be no conflict as a result of the Polish-German dispute over Danzig and Posen (the Polish corridor) which appeared certain vast Russia will be neutral.

The position of Poland, which has been counting on the strength of what Germany calls the economic sanctuaries of the "peace front," appeared to have been weakened greatly.

German soldiers were marching on the Polish frontier, and now it seemed certain that if they are called upon to march toward they will not have to worry about the possibility of encountering Russian troops somewhere in middle Poland.

ALL EUROPE STABILIZED

Germany's announcement of its diplomatic "putch" shocked all Europe.

It apparently meant that the month-long efforts of Britain and France to induce Russia to enter a front to back up Poland, Rumania and other smaller European countries against Nazi had failed.

For, according to the German announcement, Russia had agreed not to fight Germany.

The announcement of what diplomatic observers called a master stroke by Adolf Hitler came with a warning that Germany was in Moscow going over the top, and that the strategy with the Soviet officers.

It seemed likely these discussions would lead to no constructive results.

BRIT TO VISIT MOSCOW

The brief official announcement of the decision of Russia to sign a non-aggression pact with Germany was followed by a statement by British Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop that he will arrive in Moscow Wednesday to conclude negotiations.

It was presumed the vital important document would be signed within the course of a day or two, after which Germany would not have to fear any great intervention from the east as far as military opposition is concerned.

JAPAN PACT IN DOUBT

What effect the new agreement will have on Germany's promises to Japan under the terms of the anti-Comintern pact—so which Italy was a signatory—could not be known, came the warning.

The announcement of the non-aggression pact followed by the conclusion of a vast important treaty agreement which gives Germany access to Russia's oil, timber and wheat.

The Japanese military opposition is concerned.

Official Confirmation Made In Moscow

MOSCOW, Aug. 22 (Tuesday) (INS)—The agreement between Soviet news service, early today confirmed the Berlin announcement of a non-aggression accord between the U.S.S.R. and Nazi Germany.

Belgian King Summons Neutral Conference

BRUSSELS, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Belgian young king, Leopold III, summoned the foreign ministers of six other neutral nations today to join Belgium in an urgent appeal for a peaceful settlement of Europe's quarrels.

The conference, called suddenly for Wednesday, will have an almost equalizer in the co-ordination of policy of the seven neutrals regarding various problems in event of war.

The government of the 37-year-old monarch looked to as a potent factor in Europe's immediate future.

For Wednesday among the foreign ministers of Belgium, the Netherlands, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland and Luxembourg was set a peaceful way out of the old world's tension.

'Wild' Woman's Homesite Is Located

An almost-forgotten story of an early day female Robinson Crusoe who for 18 years braved the loneliness of rock-bound San Nicholas island off Santa Barbara's coast was revived yesterday with the return of an expedition from the Channel Islands.

Arthur Woodward, director of history and anthropology of the Los Angeles museum, said there the expedition apparently located the site of the hut occupied by the Indian woman, who later was baptized at the Santa Barbara Old Mission as Juana Maria.

The woman was left alone on the island in 1835, by an expedition that had been sent from Santa Barbara to remove the Indians from the place. Just as the boat was being loaded with Indians and a storm approached, Juana Maria ran from the gathering, scampered up the hills, and

The ever-fascinating story of Juana Maria is to be told and portions of it dramatized over KTMS at 7 o'clock tonight.

cried she had forgotten her baby.

The expedition was forced to depart because of the storm, and Juana Maria was soon forgotten. For 18 years she lived alone on the island, Woodward said. Her baby died meanwhile. The woman lived by fishing and hunting with snares.

In 1853, an expedition headed by George Nidever of Santa

Barbara visited the island and captured the half-wild woman, who could speak the language only of her tribe, all of whom were then dead. She died six weeks later and was buried at the Santa Barbara mission.

Woodward said the expedition returning today also had found what appeared to be the "mint" of early-day California. On Santa Cruz and Santa Rosa islands, he said, he found 1,700 fine stone drills used to make beads, which served as the currency for the early day Indians.

Santa Rosa, Santa Cruz, San Nicholas and San Miguel islands were visited during which nearly 200 village sites were inspected and from which relics were obtained, Woodward said.

An almost-forgotten story of an early day female Robinson Crusoe who for 18 years braved the loneliness of rock-bound San Nicholas island off Santa Barbara's coast was revived yesterday with the return of an expedition from the Channel Islands. *

Arthur Woodward, director of history and anthropology of the Los Angeles museum, said there the expedition apparently located the site of the hut occupied by the Indian woman, who later was baptized at the Santa Barbara Old Mission as Juana Maria.

The woman was left alone on the island in 1835, by an expedition that had been sent from Santa Barbara to remove the Indians from the place. Just as the boat was being

* loaded with Indians and a storm approached, Juana Maria ran from the gathering, scampered up the hills, and *

The ever-fascinating story of Juana Maria is to be told and portions of it dramatized over KTMS at 7 o'clock tonight.

cried she had forgotten her baby.

The expedition was forced to depart because of the storm, and Juana Maria was soon forgotten. For 18 years she lived alone on the island, Woodward said. Her baby died meanwhile. The woman lived by fishing and hunting with snares.

In 1853, an expedition headed by George Nidever of Santa

* Barbara visited the island and captured the half-wild woman, who could speak the language only of her tribe, all of whom were then dead. She died six weeks later and was buried at the Santa Barbara mission.

Woodward said the expedition returning today also had found what appeared to be the "mint" of early-day California. On Santa Cruz and Santa Rosa islands, he said, he found 1,700 fine stone drills used to make beads, which served as the currency for the early day Indians.

Santa Rosa, Santa Cruz, San Nicholas and San Miguel islands were visited during which nearly 200 village sites were inspected and from which relics were obtained, Woodward said.