

TRACTION CO. SAYS IT CANNOT RECONSTRUCT TRACKS IN WEST END

Will Close Road if City Forces The Work—Corporation Counsel Parshall Reminds Them They Are Repudiating Pledge They Made to City When Freed of Paving

MR. PARSHALL'S REPLY TO TRACTION COMPANY

Corporation Counsel D. A. Parshall today sent the following reply to the Traction Company:

Mr. G. H. Stephenson,
President P. J. Traction Co.
900 Land Title Bldg.
Philadelphia, Pa.

Dear Sir: The Common Council of the City of Port Jervis instructs me to acknowledge receipt of your letter of June 30th, in which you write:

"I am today in receipt of your letter of June 29th, with enclosure in regard to paving West Main street. The Port Jervis Traction Company is without funds to do this paving and if the City requires them to put up any additional money, we will close down the road as soon as paving begins, and discontinue service."

The Common Council instructs me to call your attention to the fact that the Traction Company is not required to do any paving by reason of the amendment to the City Charter enacted at the last session of the legislature. The City procured the legislation in reliance upon the promise contained in your letter of January 18, 1921, in which you write:

"In view of the fact that the City is about to obtain the necessary legislation to amend its charter so as to relieve this Company of all paving assessments, the Port Jervis Traction Company hereby assents and agrees that whenever and wherever paving is done on the streets through which its lines run, it will at its own expense relay its tracks, so as to conform to the grade given by the City Engineer, put in new ties and bonding where necessary and perform the necessary reconstruction in ample time, so as not to interfere with the progress of the street paving."

The Common Council is loath to believe that you or your Company would in such open and bare-faced fashion repudiate its formal and solemn agreement and at present prefers to assume that as a reading of your letter would indicate, your letter of June 30th was written without consideration or knowledge of the fact that nothing in the notice, sent to the Traction Company required the latter to do any paving but simply to re-lay its tracks in anticipation of the paving, as it had promised to do.

Will you kindly advise me at your earliest convenience whether your letter was in fact written under a misapprehension or whether you do in fact propose to go back on your agreement after the city had done its part by having the legislation passed which relieves the Company of all paving assessments.

Yours very truly,
JOHN F. CLEARY,
City Clerk.

The regular monthly meeting of the Common Council was held at the city hall Tuesday evening. Mayor Hornbeck, Alderman-at-large Raymond, Aldermen Porter, Ward, Mager, Schoolmaker, Reynolds, Clerk Cleary and City Attorney Parshall were in attendance.

The following communication was received from the Port Jervis Traction company in regards to paving West Main Street:

Phil., June 30, 1921.
J. F. Cleary,
City Clerk,
Port Jervis, N. Y.

I am today in receipt of your letter of June 29 with enclosures in regards to paving West Main street. The Port Jervis Traction Company is without funds to do this paving and if the City requires them to put up any additional money, we will close down the road as soon as paving begins, and discontinue service. We are exceedingly sorry to do this, as we have done everything in our power to make the Traction Company a paying proposition, but it seems this is impossible.

Will you be kind enough to present this letter to his Honor the Mayor and Common Council and write me at once, their decision in this matter.

Yours truly,
Port Jervis Traction Co.,
G. H. Stephenson, President

DR. SWARTWOUT'S WORK FOR SKY-LINE DRIVE

No individual looks for any special credit or personal glorification for Sky-Line Drive and Elks Park. The people of Port Jervis should be like one big family, each member contributing his share to the general welfare of the entire community. All enjoy the benefits, so each citizen should cheerfully meet his obligations. If he does not he cannot feel honorable or contented because he knows he enjoys privileges to which he is not entitled and at the same time he is or should be conscious that he retards the progress of his home town. We must work together and work with good spirit.

I said above that "no individual looks for personal glorification" but I deem it proper and just in this work of Sky-Line and Park to say a word of deserved praise of one man. I refer to Dr. H. B. Swartwout. I know the Doctor would as lief the word would be left unsaid. What he has done—and that is a great deal—he has done with the true civic spirit. He has devoted much time and made great sacrifices ever since the work on Park and Skyline was started. A few more citizens like Doctor Swartwout would not do any harm here in Port Jervis.

She gave the alarm and soon after men who were working in the field nearby were at the scene. Mrs. Wykes was soon brought to shore, but the body of her husband was not recovered until 8:05 that evening, it having settled into a deep hole in the river, the bottom of which is very treacherous at this point.

JULY FOURTH DEATH TOLL WAS UNUSUALLY HIGH

Drownings, Auto Accidents, Fireworks and Heat Were The Causes

Chicago, July 5.—Reports of Fourth of July accidents from various parts of the country revealed today that while the celebration by fireworks and fire arms took its toll of deaths and seriously injured by far the greater number of fatalities were from drownings and automobile accidents common to all summer holidays.

In New York city seven persons were drowned, one committed suicide after becoming demented from heat, while premature explosion of fireworks accounted for only minor accidents.

Chicago reported two persons shot to death by accident, another wounded by drowning and five killed in automobile accidents while a panic in a vacant lot when a quantity of fireworks exploded prematurely led to several being hurt.

RAILROAD MEN WILL DECIDE WAGE CUT ISSUE BY BALLOT

Brotherhood Heads Will Not Shoulder Responsibility and Submit Matter to The Membership for Decision by September First

Chicago, July 5. — The membership of sixteen Railroad labor organizations including the Big Four Brotherhoods will decide through a referendum vote by September 1 whether to accept or reject the 12 per cent wage reduction that went into effect on railroads throughout the country July 1 it was decided tonight by the chief executives and 1,500 general chairmen of the organizations.

The general chairmen decided that they could not assume responsibility for the wage reduction that was ordered by the Railroad Labor Board.

E. H. Fitzgerald, president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees said that "Nothing can be expected of the railroad employees interested in the decision of the Labor Board except to resist to the fullest extent the reduction of rates of pay and the proposed abrogation of certain favorable working conditions."

Organizations represented at the conference tonight at which the decision to have a referendum vote was made as follows:

Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen; Brotherhood of R. R. Trainmen; Order of Railway Conductors all known as the Big Four Brotherhoods; Brotherhood of R. R. Signalmen of America; Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees, Brotherhood of Ry. Carmen of America; International Alliance of Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers, International Association of Machinists; International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths; International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Ship Builders and Helpers of America; International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers; Order of R. R. Telegraphers, Switchmen's Union of North America, and the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees, and Railway Shop Laborers.

All but the Big Four Brotherhoods are members of the Railway Employees Department of the American Federation of Labor of which B. M. Jewell is president.

The chief executives and general chairmen of the sixteen organizations decided upon their united course of action after the general chairmen of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, Order of Railway Conductors, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Switchmen's Union of North America had told the other organizations that the plan was the one which they would follow.

It was then announced that the other organizations would decide upon their course within 48 hours. The general chairmen and chief executives immediately went into session and emerged within a few hours with a decision reached.

The chairmen adopted resolutions declaring that not later than September 1, the matter should "be referred to the membership through the various general committees for acceptance or rejection." They also authorized their chief executives to make arrangements, if necessary, to meet a committee of railway executives to be selected to meet a subcommittee of the five organizations, "to consider and if possible adjust all matters in controversy."

The chief executives and committees handling these matters were directed in the resolution "clearly to place the representatives of the railway corporations on record as to whether or not they will request further decreases in rates or compensation, the abolition of schedule rules or regions, or the elimination of time and one half time."

The resolution further stated that the ballot when submitted to the men shall contain an impartial and unbiased recital of all that is involved and the wishes of the men as expressed by ballot shall determine the matter, in accordance with the laws of the organizations."

BODY OF BOY FOUND HANGING IN AN OLD BARN

Wandered Away After Father Called His Attention to Mistake

Following a relatively slight disagreement with his father, Frank Salattino, 16 years old, of Milton, left his home and wandered to an abandoned barn near New Paltz, where on Saturday his body was found hanging. It was badly decomposed but was identified through the clothing.

Two weeks ago, the youth who was employed on his father's fruit farm, left the place and nothing had been heard from him until the finding of the body.

The father was in Newburgh on Saturday and invoked the aid of the police but nothing had been seen of the youth there. Later in the day, however, the body was discovered and identified by an uncle who lived in that section. It was so badly decomposed that it was necessary to bury it at once, but afterward it was disinterred and the father saw it and assured himself that it was his son. The body when found was suspended by a cord such as is used in handling grapes.

Prior to the boy's disappearance his father had chided him for a mistake which he had made in charging some fruit. He had charged strawberries when he should have said raspberries. There was nothing severe in this, rather a calling attention to his mistake. The boy, however, started away and though his father called to him he did not reply or come back as he was told. It was thought he was simply angered for the moment and would return. He did not do so, however, and though the father searched in many directions no trace of him was found.

RAILROADS FILE BIG CLAIMS

Washington July 5.—Upon the question of efficiency or non-efficiency of wartime railroad labor today depended settlement of $1,250,000,000 worth of claims filed by the railroads against the government. Attorneys for the railroads, appearing before Rail Director Davis, contend the railroad administration should have spent $1,250,000,000 more than it did during federal control on maintenance of property and rights of way. The money actually spent by the government was insufficient to keep the roads in good condition because of inefficiency of the workers employed. Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE PROUD TRUNK.

"I feel sorry," said the trunk, "for other trunks which have not traveled."

"I've never traveled very much," said the suitcase near by.

"I've been once to the seashore," the suitcase continued, "and when the trip was over with I had a goodly smell of the ocean for sometime after. Quite damp bathing suits were put inside me."

"Have you never been anywhere else but to the seashore?" asked the trunk.

"Oh, yes," said the suitcase. "I've been to the country, too. I went filled with all sorts of interesting things. There were stockings with holes which were taken in me, and lots of other things of that sort which needed mending."

"And then I came back with different things in me."

"Indeed," said the trunk, "and what, pray tell, did you carry coming home?"

"I came home filled with apples and potatoes and I can tell you I had quite an exciting trip home. You see my owner, who is quite a grown-up person, had been to visit her mother and that was why the stockings were in the suitcase, or in me, as you care to say it."

"I don't care to say it," said the trunk.

"Very well," said the suitcase, "no harm done, I'm sure. But you see, we went by train, and coming home we were invited to ride in a motor car owned by some very fine and very rich people. Oh, it was a very smart car, and I was strapped on behind along with beautiful leather suitcases and all covered over with a leather cover."

"Never," said the suitcase, "in all my suitcase life had I traveled in such style."

"I knew my owner would feel quite badly if I should come apart, and so I had a very exciting time trying to keep together and making believe to those very smart and rich people that beautiful dresses were in me instead of apples and potatoes."

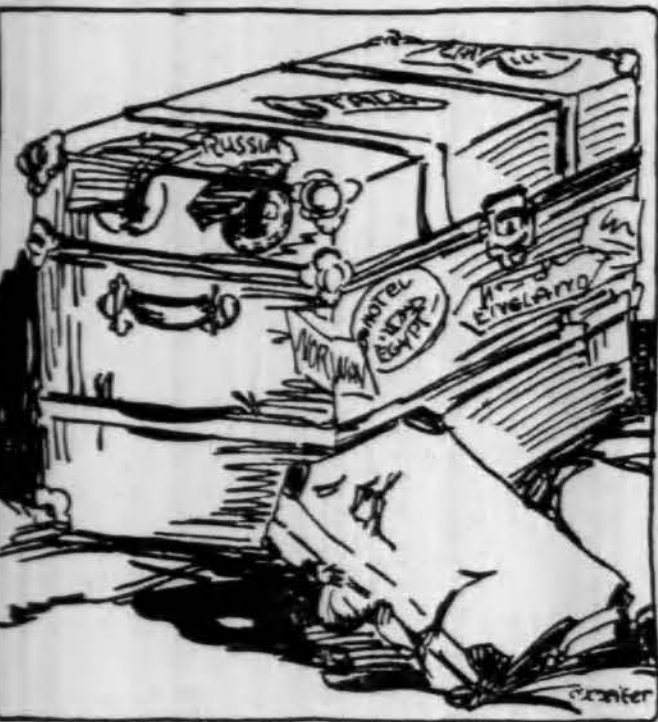

"My owner loves to carry things home like that after she has visited her mother. Gracious me, there isn't anything she won't take in me! Food, food, food! How much food I've carried."

"Of course I'm of straw, as you can see, and I'm not very strong now. I've been on a good many journeys, though I've been mostly back and forth between one or two places. That is why I cannot say I have traveled far."

"I have been to the country very often."

"Doesn't your owner ever darn her stockings?" asked the trunk.

"Not for sometime when she is going soon to visit her mother. She saves them as her mother is so good and willing about darning stockings."

"Not Very Strong."

HAS HER MARRIAGE TO DEAD MAN ANNULLED

After His Death Seattle Woman Learned She Had Another Husband Living.

A dead man's marriage has been annulled in superior court at Seattle by Judge Everett Smith.

Mrs. Winifred A. Hill, widow of George D. Hill, who died at Victoria, B. C., September 15, 1914, had presented a petition to have this marriage declared void—because, since his death she had learned that a former husband, whom she believed dead, was alive.

The decree, one of the most peculiar in the annals of the local courts, was granted after J. P. Ball, attorney for Mrs. Hill, had cited a recent decision of the state supreme court giving authority for the granting of decrees making certain marriages void ab initio (from the inception), even though one of the parties to it should be deceased.

The facts as testified in court of the petition were as follows:

The woman had married in the eighties. She had three children. Her first husband died. In 1892, at Norwood, N. Y., she was married for the second time. She and her second husband, Myron C. Andrews, lived together until 1896, when, as she alleged, because of his cruel treatment she left him.

In 1904 Mrs. Andrews moved to Calgary, Alta. In 1907 she was informed from reliable sources that Andrews had died.

She remained a widow, or thought she did, until July 23, 1912, when in Seattle she was married to George D. Hill.

After Hill's death in Victoria, two years later, she returned to Seattle. In 1919 she learned that Andrews was living. She had the report investigated and verified beyond question the information that he resided in New York. There was no communication between them; they remained estranged.

But the status of things worried Mrs. Hill—or Mrs. Andrews. She had, quite innocently, contracted a bigamous marriage, to which Hill had been a party two years, and of which he had died unenlightened. She consulted counsel, and was told that the Hill marriage could be declared void.

Judge Smith's decree restored to the woman the name of Winifred Adell H. Andrews, and made her again the wife of the man whose widow she had supposed herself—the man she deserted 25 years ago.

MANY OWN THEIR HOMES

Six Million Families in United States Do Not Pay Rent.

More than 6,000,000 families have come through the nation-wide economic depression and wide-spread unemployment still owning their homes, preliminary census returns indicate. More home owners now live in the United States than in any other country.

An aggregate investment of approximately $30,000,000,000 is represented by the owned homes of the United States, assuming that the average home value is $5,000. At five per cent American home owners are paying out about $1,500,000,000 a year for the privilege of possessing their titles.

More than 15,000,000 families live in rented houses, but the number is decreasing continually. Reports of the federal reserve board and other federal agencies show that a building boom is beginning in many sections.

LEGION MAN OBTAINS PATENT

Twice Wounded, Engineer While Confined to Hospital, Works Out Bronze Tablet.

Wounded by the explosion of a high explosive shell in the Vosges mountains, Private R. G. Quehl, 318th Engineers, lay on a hard cot in a hospital and wondered about his chances of getting home. He recovered, however, went into action, and on November 2, was again wounded.

Brought back to America and placed in the base hospital at Camp Lewis, Wash., Quehl worked out the details for a bronze memorial tablet. While awaiting his discharge he drew up the plans, and in civilian life again, he has obtained a patent on an invention which he calls the Individual War Memorial.

It is a plaque of bronze with the figure of a private in war uniform. Around the plaque in raised letters are the names of the allied countries. A plate to be engraved with the service record is in the center. Orders are pouring in so rapidly that he has been forced to enlarge his working force.

Disability Demands Required on War Risk Insurance Forms to Gain Attention.

"If you have a disability which you feel is due to your military or naval service during the war, you should as a matter of duty to yourself and your country immediately file a claim for disability," reads an article in the American Legion Weekly.

"To make the claim, obtain from your local post, the National Service Division of the Legion, or the Bureau of War Risk Insurance the following forms: Numbers 526, 539 and 545. In addition, make a detailed statement of your condition and occupation prior to service, injury or sickness during service, where treated, and physical condition since discharge. Obtain a like statement from one or more persons who were with you and knew of your disability during service. Get a statement also from one or two persons who have known you since discharge, particularly your employers and other disinterested persons.

"Last and most important, get statements from all the doctors who treated your case and from the hospitals where you were confined. These must all be sworn to before a notary public and forwarded to the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, where, after consideration of your health record, your military record and your present condition, an award should either be made or disallowed.

"If you are among the 100,000 whose claims are hanging fire, the National Service Division of the American Legion will make it its personal business to get a decision on your claim."

ALONE FOR EIGHTEEN YEARS

Indian Woman, Abandoned on Desert Island, Finally Found by Party of Otter Hunters.

On San Nicholas island, which is uninhabited, a party of sea-otter hunters, landing to chance their luck, found, to their amazement, the imprint of human feet on the sandy shore—imprints freshly made. They scattered in search. But, the wind shifting and commencing to blow hard, they had to regain their vessel before the maker of the marks could be found. It was undeniable, however, a human being lived on this bleak, wind-blown island of sand and tall brushwood.

On returning to the mainland they reported the strange discovery, but nothing was done until a Roman Catholic priest was so moved by the news that he persuaded the captain of a small schooner to sail with him for San Nicolas. After two days' searching he discovered this lonely Crusoe—the first of a new kind. For he found inside a low hut of driftwood a woman more like a beast than a person.

She was clad in otter skins, and the feathered skins of the sea-fowl, and her companion was an otter, which she had caught very young and tamed.

The priest with difficulty got her story, for she had almost forgotten how to speak. Many years previously the small tribe of Indians to which she belonged—inhabitants of San Nicolas from time past—had been shifted by the government to the mainland. As they were being taken on board, her baby had fallen into the sea, and she had leaped after him, and in the dusk had been given up as drowned. She reached the shore, however, to find the child was dead. In utter loneliness she had lived there for 18 years.

Americans Killed With Escadrille.

There were twelve young Americans who gave up their lives for France while flying with the Lafayette escadrille or squadron. To perpetuate their names and memory a memorial tablet was modeled by a French artist at Sevres, France, in 1919, and executed under the direction of Sidney B. Veit, secretary of the foreign service committee of the Aero Club of America. The Lafayette squadron won imperishable fame by its success in aerial combats with enemy planes, of which no fewer than 190 were brought down by this organization alone. The names on the tablet: Norman Barclay, Julian Biddle, Andrew Courtney Campbell, Jr., Oliver Chadwick, Victor Chapman, Edmond Genet, Ronald Hoskier Douglas McMonigal, James McConnel, Norman Prince, Kiffin Rockwell.

Breaking a Land-Clearing Record.

A total of over 18,000 acres of land in Marinette county, Wisconsin, were cleared during the season of 1920. This is a record, and the increase will represent at least $1,000,000 a year in crops. The closing of the task was marked by a great blast of an acre of stumps near Wausaukee. At this point 158 sticks of dynamite were set off simultaneously as an electric impulse was transmitted by a presiding official who closed a switch. A land clearing school and fifty-seven educational meetings were part of the campaign that made their efforts so successful, and explosives to the extent of fourteen carloads were used in the undertaking.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Use for "Waste" Timber.

As timber grows scarce, tree tops—hitherto troublesome waste—are being utilized as a new source of material. Slabs cut from stumps of such wood as Douglas fir are found to be valuable for various purposes, including the making of chairs and other furniture. Small portable mills in British Columbia are reported to cut an average of 200 slabs an inch thick from each stump; and the product from a single large stump is said to have had a value of $1,800. The root wood is of excellent quality, taking a good polish.

Sir Walter Raleigh Had A Bright Idea

You remember the episode of the rainy day when he threw his cloak into a puddle that the good queen might cross without getting wet feet and perhaps the flu. That was advertising. Sir Walter had a message of import to her majesty. He wanted a hearing. He got it—by a courteous and ingenious method of attracting favorable attention. It was another case of advertising that paid both ways.

Business today is metaphorically throwing its cloak before you. It seeks your favorable attention. It uses its most effective method of capturing it—advertising. Day after day it caters to your tastes, and your desires through advertising.

The men who advertise in this paper believe that if they succeed in getting their message across to you, you will often be interested and sometimes inspired with a little of their own enthusiasm for their wares.

Advertising will help you. Whether you realize it or not, advertising is a big vital force in your life. Through it, American genius and American manufacturers are putting within your reach the many boons of modern life.

Advertising keeps your information up to date on every article of human need, whether food, clothing, articles of household utility, necessities or luxuries.

Advertisers deserve your support. The queen knighted Sir Walter.

ALONE FOR EIGHTEEN YEARS

Indian Woman, Abandoned on Desert Island, Finally Found by Party of Otter Hunters.

On San Nicholas island, which is uninhabited, a party of sea-otter hunters, landing to chance their luck, found, to their amazement, the imprint of human feet on the sandy shore—imprints freshly made. They scattered in search. But, the wind shifting and commencing to blow hard, they had to regain their vessel before the maker of the marks could be found. It was undeniable, however, a human being lived on this bleak, wind-blown island of sand and tall brushwood.

On returning to the mainland they reported the strange discovery, but nothing was done until a Roman Catholic priest was so moved by the news that he persuaded the captain of a small schooner to sail with him for San Nicolas. After two days' searching he discovered this lonely Crusoe—the first of a new kind. For he found inside a low hut of driftwood a woman more like a beast than a person.

She was clad in otter skins, and the feathered skins of the sea-fowl, and her companion was an otter, which she had caught very young and tamed.

The priest with difficulty got her story, for she had almost forgotten how to speak. Many years previously the small tribe of Indians to which she belonged—inhabitants of San Nicolas from time past—had been shifted by the government to the mainland. As they were being taken on board, her baby had fallen into the sea, and she had leaped after him, and in the dusk had been given up as drowned. She reached the shore, however, to find the child was dead. In utter loneliness she had lived there for 18 years.
