New York State Income.

Erie county has received from State Comptroller Wendell a check for $855,769.07 in payment of the first instalment of the county's portion of 1920 state income tax receipts.

Figures made public by the state comptroller show the allotment was based on total income tax collections to date of $38,000,000. Checks aggregating $16,500,000 were mailed to county treasurers of 57 counties and to the receiver of taxes in greater New York. Payment of the 50 per cent remaining was made into the state treasury to the credit of the general fund.

Counties of New York, The Bronx, Kings, Queens and Richmond, comprising Greater New York, received the prize check, amounting to $11,- 274,189.63.

The other 57 counties of the state received a combined total of $5,225,- 860.37.

"Income tax receipts," said Mr.
Wendell, "are apportioned among the cities, villages and towns in the proportion which the assessed valuation of the real property of each town or city bears to the aggregate assessed valuation of the real property of the county."

"Figures given out by the state tax commission show the assessed valuation of the real property for 1920 in the Empire state totals the enormous sum of $14,895,726,491, which is nearly two billion dollars in excess of the assessed valuation for 1919.

Greater New York counties swept all others before them in the proportion of increase in assessed valuation for the year 1920, the amount reaching $1,346,863,397.

"While a number of counties outside of Greater New York show increases in assessed valuation, the amount received by some is less than the first distribution a year ago. This is because their proportionate share of increases in assessed valuation is not as large as the proportionate share of other counties. Some counties have raised their valuation 10 per cent, or better over 1919. In such cases, the amount of income tax revenue received by them has been substantially increased over the sum received a year ago in the initial installment.

"The present distribution is $500,000 in excess of the first payment a year ago on account of 1919 income taxes.

"It is interesting to note that of each dollar of 1920 income tax paid to the state Greater New York will this year receive 68 cents plus, while the other 57 counties will receive 31 cents plus a fraction of a cent."

Figures for the Western New York counties showing the distribution of the tax this year and last are:

	1921	1920
Allegany	$3,621.55	$3,163.04
Cattaraugus	$53,279.95	$55,046.08
Chautauqua	$4,893.90	$100,954.72
Erie	$85,769.07	$85,769.07
Genesee	$45,012.48	$47,885.60
Niagara	$196,419.47	$204,968.16
Livingston	$3,553.75	$9,702.56
Orleans	$34,190.38	$37,315.68
Wyoming	$29,573.67	$30,093.12

Chautauqua Assembly.

The forty-eighth assembly promises to be the banner year for the institution. Problems of political, education and of democratic government, the operations of women in business and professional life and the international relations between Europe and America are all emphasized in the generous program. The New York Symphony Orchestra will again give concerts beginning July 11th and continuing till August 20th. President I. A. Haas of Muhlenberg College, conducts the devotional hour this week.
Mrs. Percy Pennypacker, Professor Frank Von DerLaake of the Memorial Art Gallery of Rochester and Mr.
W. C. Smith of the New York State department of education are among the speakers of the week.

The topic of the week of July 10 is Problems of Democratic Government.
Dr. Cornelius Woelfkin will preach the sermon and conduct the devotionals.
Other speakers will be Miss Amy Cyran of London University, Professor John C. Archer of Yale University and a recital by Professor S.
H. Clark of the University of Chicago.
This week ushers in the concerts by the New York Symphony Orchestra.

The publication of the New York State Session Laws for this year begins in the supplement of eight pages included in this issue.

Mrs. Cynthia Peckham, aunt of the editor, who has been one of his family for over 14 years and will, if still with us, pass her 93rd birthday anniversary July 10th is in very low physical condition. She has been practically a shut-in for over four years.
Mentally she is particularly bright, though now very deaf.

During this particularly dry hot spell, a real drouth, with a small supply of city water at low pressure, a condition that with the continual village growth has been self evident for several years, and should have awakened the water company to improving its system so long ago that there could have been a great plenty of water to fully supply all present or needed demands and for years to come. Nothing apparently has been done and now we are to be notified today by the company, after under-writer inspectors found the true conditions yesterday, by the distribution to all householders of doggers not to use water for any but household and sanitary uses. It's up to the water company to bestir itself and get more water.

FRATERNAL NOTES.

W. R. A. M.

The W. R. A. M. will hold its regular meeting Friday evening, July 8th, at Brendel's hall. All members are requested to be present.

BASEBALL

Hamburg Wins From Dewey—Legion Trimmed by Gardenville—Corporals Play Here Saturday.

Next Saturday on the local grounds the Hamburg will have as their opponents the fast Corporals of Buffalo.
The city club has a very fast team, and a good game is looked for. Smith will be on the firing line for Hamburg with Bill Grossman back of the plate.
Do not miss this game.

The locals easily defeated Dewey Saturday by a score of 6 to 1. Edgar Smith, the local High School twirler, was on the firing line for Hamburg and let the visitors down with five scattered hits. Leary, who was on the mound for Dewey, was driven from the box in the first inning, the home boys securing four hits and three runs in that round. Dick Miller, of Polish National fame, then took up the burden and held the locals scoreless until the seventh, when he was found for two hits and a base on balls.

SUMMER TIME.

(Lumilla Claire Clark.)

When the birds and flowers have overflowed
In sweetness on the breeze;
When your office seems a torrid zone
And you pine for shady trees;
When all things are liquefying
And the mercury takes a climb, Repress complaining sighing
For then 'tis summer time.

When your linen damp and wilting Doth yearn for Wing Lee's hand,
And you sit most vexed and melting
With just a collar-band!
While the beads of perspiration
In a martyr crown doth shine
And you're plunged in desperation, Ah, then 'tis summer time.

When the mornings burst in beauty
And another nap you try,
You're abruptly called to duty
By that persistent, pesky fly,
And your rosy dreams all vanish
To a more celestial clime
And you wake—that fly to banish,
For then 'tis summer time.

When the ice bills are enormous
And the ice don't last the day,
You need the mild assurances
That it must have run away,
Although, alas, the bills don't melt Away a single dime,
But then, you can't expect such luck,
At least, in summer time.

And then when evening shadows spread
And cool the summer sky,
Your truant footsteps then are lead
To one who makes time fly;
And as you sit in net-woe swing,
You rest in bliss sublime
Until the 'skeeters start to sting, Ah, bitter—sweet is summer time.

Civic Pride and Shade Trees.

BY C. F. ELEY.

Article IX.

Whoever does not appreciate a shade tree ought to be banished to the treeless plains and let the weather there be as hot as we have experienced in the recent heated term. Whoever thinks that the cooling and protective shade of a stately elm, or a spreading maple, growing before a business place, would be a detriment to his particular business, especially if such business place has a south exposure, and would prefer to screen his front from the scorching sun by means of a faded-out, ragged noisy flopping awning must be blind to the facts.

Gradually and properly, thoughtful men and women are coming, more and more, to value shade trees, not only from a standpoint of service, but as well, from an aesthetic viewpoint.

A striking case in mind is the controvery now going on in a neighboring town where it is proposed to so widen a tree-bordered street that all shade trees on street would need to be sacrificed.

Two elements or factions of taxpayers appeared before the city council relative to a resolution to widen street.
Those who favored the resolution could see no other alternative, and resented the charge that they stood for, and represented real estate speculators.

The opponents to this slaughter of trees pointed out other practical means for relieving the present traffic congestion.

To his everlasting credit, let it be said that one of our own prominent townsmen stood on the side of conservation. Feelingly he quoted from that beautiful poem:

"Woodman, spare that tree!
Touch not a single bough;
In youth it sheltered me,
And I'll protect it now."

The best council prevailed and the resolution was turned down by the city council. Even the press of Buffalo has aligned itself on the side of a city beautiful rather than the altogether materialistic city.

Saturday morning, June 25th, commenting on this contest, or show-down The Buffalo Express said editorially:
One of the greatest assets of Buffalo is Delaware Avenue. The greatest asset of Delaware Avenue is its trees. Business development should adapt itself to the assets which we have.

This article concludes the present series. With few exceptions, there is no proof that anybody was interested in, or got anything out of it. The writer feels, however, that the duty that was his has been met, and though years, yes generations should pass, the truths uttered and the pleas made for Hamburg's shade trees will stand long after he himself has passed away.

If the present hit and miss policy, or no policy at all, shall continue to prevail, tree lovers will have themselves to blame for not supporting a campaign to establish here an up-to-date public shade tree policy.

If, on the other hand, in his enthusiasm, the writer has said things that hurt, or were not justified by local conditions, the aggrieved can, no doubt, avail himself or herself of the same opportunity so generously granted by the publisher of the Erie County Independent to the author of this series, and let him assure such that in him they will have an interested reader, ready to retract if shown.

society unveiled and presented to the city a marker which the society has placed on the site of the Pan-American temple of music, in which President McKinley was fatally shot Sept. 6, 1901.

The South Dayton Herald has closed its office there. The paper was discontinued some months ago, unexpired subscriptions being filled by the Cattaraugus Times, and the office was kept open to do job printing until now.

Work is going on already in New York state in the manufacture of automobile license plates for next year which will be turned out to the number of 850,000 sets. The work is being done by the prisoners in the penitentiary at Auauora.

State Comptroller Wendell has announced the appointment of Edward G. Zimmer of Rochester as deputy state comptroller at a salary of $6,000 a year. Mr. Zimmer has been assistant director of the state income tax bureau since 1919.

Wallace Odell of the Tarrytown News was elected president of the New York Press association at the final session of the organization's 68th annual convention at Ithaca. He succeeds Walter B. Sanders of Nunda. Elias Vair of Waterloo was re-elected secretary and treasurer.

The state department of farms and markets, working in co-operation with the Dairymen's league, will manufacture the largest single cheese ever made. It will be manufactured at Lowville for exhibition at the state fair at Syracuse in September.

Because his health will not permit him to do the full measure of the work which his office requires, the Rt. Rev. Charles Tyler Olmsted, Episcopal bishop of Central New York, has transferred the ecclesiastical authority to Charles Fiske of Syracuse, bishop coadjutor.

Objecting to the operation of one-man car crews by the Corning & Painted Post railway upon the ground that the practice is dangerous alike to passengers and the public the Corning town board has directed its attorney to file a complaint with the public service commission.

A small apple crop but bright marketing prospects were predicted at the monthly meeting of the New York State Evaporators' association in Rochester. The crop will run only from 25 to 40 per cent, due to frosts, it was said by men who had inspected conditions all over the state.

Ditches in the country around Olean are running with milk according to reports. Dairymen tell that they are unable to find a market for their milk, and they are pouring the fluid into small streams and ditches.

"It will soon be the land of milk—but not milk and honey—out our way," said one man. Some of the dairymen who have pigs are feeding the animals the real—and not the skimmed—stuff.

According to State Highway Commissioner Sisson, the prospects of the completion of 500 miles of new highway this season are excellent. Of the 387 miles of good road work started, one-third of the contracts are nearly completed. The aggregate cost of the work at the present time being done is $14,888,800. A small

QUICK CHANGES OF LANGUAGE

Among Many Savage Tribes of the Pacific the Old and Young Speak Different Tongue.

Aree, the boy who acted as our maid-of-all-work on Vao (New Hebrides group, South Pacific) supplied me with native words until I had a fairly respectable vocabulary, but, when I tried to use it, I made the interesting discovery that the old men and the young men spoke different tongues, writes Martin Johnson in Asia Magazine.

Language changes rapidly among savage tribes. No one troubles to get the correct pronunciation of a word. The younger generation adopt abbreviations or new words at will, and incorporate into their speech strange corruptions of English or French words learned from the whites. Some of the words I learned from Aree were absolutely unintelligible to many of the older men.

The language varied considerably from village to village, and though many of the Vao men were refugees from Malekula, it was very different from that of any of the tribes on the big island. I once estimated the number of languages spoken in the South Seas at four hundred. I am now convinced that as many as that are used by the black races alone.

ALONE FOR EIGHTEEN YEARS

Indian Woman, Abandoned on Desert Island, Finally Found by Party of Otter Hunters.

On San Nicholas Island, which is uninhabited, a party of sea-otter hunters, landing to chance their luck, found, to their amazement, the imprint of human feet on the sandy shore—imprints freshly made. They scattered in search. But, the wind shifting and commencing to blow hard, they had to regain their vessel before the mucker of the marks could be found. It was undeniable, however, a human being lived on this bleak, wind-blown island of sand and tall brushwood.

On returning to the mainland they reported the strange discovery, but nothing was done until a Roman Catholic priest was so moved by the news that he persuaded the captain of a small schooner to sail with him for San Nicolas. After two days' searching he discovered this lonely Crusoe—the first of a new kind. For he found inside a low hut of driftwood a woman more like a beast than a person.

She was clad in otter skins, and the feathered skins of the sea-fowl, and her companion was an otter, which she had caught very young and tamed.

The priest with difficulty got her story, for she had almost forgotten how to speak. Many years previously the small tribe of Indians to which she belonged—inhabitants of San Nicolas from time past—had been shifted by the government to the mainland. As they were being taken on board, her baby had fallen into the sea, and she had leaped after him, and in the dusk had been given up as drowned. She reached the shore, however, to find the child was dead. In utter loneliness she had lived there for 18 years.

Profiteering Claimed to Have Spread to the Undertaker and the Cemetery Manager.

Exploitation even at the side of the grave! Birth has long been regarded as a costly occasion, sometimes the occasion of profiteering. Diseases during infancy afford further opportunities for taking advantage of people's ignorance. Child labor and other ill-seize upon the youth almost before he enters adolescence, and fraudulent schemes of education may carry him into maturity. Adult life, of course, is a long stretch of abuses. Our food, our shelter, our clothes, our leisure—some where we are almost certain to pay the penalty of living; many of us even regard ourselves as underpaid. If we

Early Astronomical Instruments.

The earliest known astronomical instruments of German make have recently been described by Dr. J. Hartmann of Göttingen. They belonged to the philosopher and astronomer, Cardinal Nikolaus of Cusa, who lived from 1401 to 1464, and comprised a "torquetum," for measuring the longitude and latitude of the celestial bodies, an astrolabe and two celestial globes. A note has been found in the cardinal's own handwriting, stating that he purchased three of these instruments in the year 1444, together with 16 astronomical treatises, for the sum of 38 florins. Doctor Hartmann believes that at least two of the instruments were made by one Nikolaus Hylsch of Erfurt, who was born in 1370.—Scientific American.

Honi Soit.

Morris Gest said at a Chicago reception:

"These blue-law people are always finding offense where no offense is intended. They remind me of the book-seller."

"Bishop Trevor of England wrote a book some time ago called 'Loose Stones.' The book was highly recommended to me by a priest. Accordingly I wrote to my bookseller and ordered a copy."

"The bookseller sent me his reply next day. He said he had no copy of 'Trevor's Loose Stones' in stock, and he added that if my taste ran to that kind of literature I had better patronize another bookseller in future."

Container for Liquid Oxygen.

The increasing use of liquid oxygen in life-saving respiratory apparatus, airplanes and as a mine explosive, has made necessary the development of a container for it of a stronger, more reliable construction than the vacuum-walled glass bulbs used heretofore, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The bureau of standards has designed for this purpose a durable vessel without vacuum walls, the contents being protected from heat by a coating of insulating material with which the device is covered.

Smashing Proof.

"Mrs. Blueblood brags about her ancestors, but I don't believe they amounted to much—they couldn't even afford to keep servants."

"How do you know that?"

"Mrs. Blueblood showed me a set of dishes that she said had been in the family for more than a hundred years."—New York Sun.

attempt to fly from these demands of exorbitancy the loan shark grins outside the door. Old age creeps upon us with leering malevolence. From the cradle onward we are harried. And now comes death to add its finishing touch of trickery, writes Winthrop D. Lane in the Literary Review of Quincy L. Dowd's "Funeral Management and Costs." St. Paul's question has been answered. The sting of death lies in its cost; the victory of the grave belongs to the undertaker and the cemetery manager. "We bargain for the graves we lie in."

Americans Killed With Escadrille.

There were twelve young Americans who gave up their lives for France while flying with the Lafayette escadrille or squadron. To perpetuate their names and memory a memorial tablet was modeled by a French artist at Sevres, France, in 1919, and executed under the direction of Sidney B. Velt, secretary of the foreign service committee of the Aero Club of America. The Lafayette squadron won imperishable fame by its success in aerial combats with enemy planes, of which no fewer than 190 were brought down by this organization alone. The names on the tablet: Norman Barclay, Julian Biddle, Andrew Courtney Campbell, Jr., Oliver Chadwick, Victor Chapman, Edmond Genet, Ronald Hoskier Douglas, Monigal, James McConnell, Norman Prince, Kiffin Rockwell.

Richest Americans.

An investigation of millionaires by a New York newspaper correspondent includes the following as among the richest Americans: John D. Rockefeller, George F. Baker, Henry Ford, Mrs. E. H. Harriman, the Wideners, George Eastman, J. B. Duke, Pierre S. Dupont, Julius Rosenwald, Vincent Astor, Edward H. R. Green, J. Ogden Armour, the Vanderbilts, Thomas Fortune Ryan, Daniel Guggenheim, the Harknesses, Louis F. Swift, Charles M. Schwab, Cyrus H. McCormick, J. P. Morgan, the Bradys, E. T. Stotesbury, the Pratts, the Dodge estate, Andrew W. Mellon.

Whale of a Fish Story.

"It's a whale," more than one visitor asserted who visited Monk's wharf here recently. They were wrong. It was a sturgeon. From the tip of its tail to its snout it measured just 13 feet, and it weighed 988 pounds. This monster fish was taken with a drift net in the Pitt river by an Indian fisherman, and is said to be the second largest ever taken.—New Westminster Correspondence Toronto Globe.
