John A. Morris Thinks the Former "Arc Superior—" His Breeding Farm.

John A. Morris of Moss Park fame is breeding racing horses at a most comprehensive plan than any other breeder in this country. He has a farm in Essex County, England, and seeks to breed upon it a sire of surpassing quality. In a recent talk he compared English and American racehorses, and said: "The English horse is larger, has a better head, and more bone than the average American horse. American stake winners in England, such as Foxhall and Iroquois, were phenomena. It is a question if they could have beaten such English phenomena as Highflyer and Eclipse. The weight of the English horse is fourteen pounds superior to the average American horse. La Fleche could beat His Highness, and there are five or six 2-year-olds whom I saw with the ability to give any thing in America, except the Highest, fourteen pounds. My colt St. Florian is not to be compared with His Highness, St. Florian has great speed, but is a coward."

The English bloodstock Mr. Morris bought four years ago included the best ones, one each by Hampton, Sterling, Hermit, and Petrarch. All are to be bred to the best sires in England. With them on the Morris farm in Essex County are American stallions, such as Ermine, Active, Lizzie Baker, Starlight, Compassion, Homeopathy, Vacation, and Ernsuro. Jennie B. is in foal by Minting, Lizzie Baker by Tom Ochiltree, and the younglings Ermine by Donovan, Active by Salliard, Vacation by Tom Ochiltree, and Starlight, Compassion, and Homeopathy by Britannic.

The English fillies are in foal by Belmont, Bayonet, and St. George. Reckon, Ambulance, and Georgia are to be sent to England later on and bred to English sires, such as Galopin Satety, Timothy, Minting, Fren's Balsam, Sheen, Petrarch, Donovan, and Ernsuro. The American fillies on the Morris farm in England are coming here early in 1892 and will be tried against American-bred youngsters. They are a filly by Belmont, a filly by Bayonet, a filly by Fernandez out of Pink Cherry, and a filly by Barcaloude out of Pisk Thorn, and a colt by Haysout of Jennie B.

Failing to buy a great English horse, Mr. Morris says that the American owners must be bred to the best English stallions in the hope that I can get what I want in that way. In England, as everywhere else, the majority of horses are second-rate."

THE TROTTING RECORD DOOMED.

Allerton and Nelson to Race at Grand Rapids—Nancy Hanks to Trot Alone.

Idea—Grand trotting events will occur this week. Tuesday at Grand Rapids Allerton, 2:09½, and Nelson, 2:10, trot their match races and Allerton, bar accidents, is certain to win. Unless Nelson shows his old faintheartedness the trotting race record, Nancy Hanks, 2:12, 2:12½, 2:12, will be broken. But Nelson is a Maine horse may win a heat or two, but the race is more likely to be won in straight heats by Allerton, without question the bestest racing stallion that was ever seen on the track. Great pacers, Direct, 2:06, and Hal Pointer, 2:09½, need for the first time, and phenomenal time is sure to come. There is no question about it, not even if the wind blows fair. Direct is almost certain to win heats, and he may win the race also. But if Hal Pointer is "on edge" and as good as he was on the kite-shaped track Marvin drove Sunol half a mile in 1:30, and jogged the full mile in 2:12½. He speeded her only on the first half-mile. Pale Astor trotted around the one-and-a-half-mile track in exercise in 2:14½. His record is 2:13¼ in a race. The track is fast, and all the horsemen here predict that Sunol will beat 2:36 when she is sent to the post.

The meeting next Tuesday promises to be fast.

At Joe Ullman's Track.

Monday's events at Joe Ullman's Elliptical "track" are a quarter-mile bicycle race, a 200-yard foot race, a three-furlong dash for slow horses, and a half-mile dash for fast ones.

On Wednesday there was a half-mile race in 1:39. On Photo, 119, colored, and a half-mile dash with Pow Wow, 110, ponies, Charley Ford, 112, Cast Out, 90, and Fairy Queen, 115, as starters.

There were no races on Friday. "racing" will be over before the week is over, on Latonia and Jerome Park begins.

Licensed Co-operative Breeding Farm.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—There is a scheme on foot here to establish a large cooperative breeding farm for trotters, with the noted Fairlawn as a nucleus.

Turf Notes.

Nancy Hankins has reduced her record six times this season, this way, 2:12½, 2:12¼, 2:12, 2:08½, 2:07, 2:05.

Allerton has reduced his record six times this season, the stopping places being, 2:13, 2:12¾, 2:12, 2:09, 2:07, 2:05.

The Elmendorf Farm was not sold, no one offering $125 or more per acre for it, as required by the reserve bid. Mr. Swigert will leave it, as he better, to the State.

It is expected that next year the Senator Stutland consents. Williams and Overton now declare that he was not raced right after the war.

J. B. Haggin gave $2,050 at the Elmendorf sale for Salina, the dam of Saviour. She is 20 years old by Lexington out of Lightness by Glencairn, bred to California and bred to Alameda. Tristan has been turned out. Long street will be trained no more until next season.

Cory and Patsy Young has a big animal, and will race no more this year.

The Convict Labor Issue.

Except on the subject of insanity, which seems to inspire lunacy in those who write upon it, no subject encounters more nonsense in its treatment than that of convict labor. For example, it is asserted that the cost of convict labor in the United States is 1 per cent of the total product of labor. It might therefore be held that the cost of convict labor is about 10,000,000 in 1,000,000 free laborers. This is cut from the Florida Times-Union. If it were true our prisoners would be worth nothing in our prisons, and that they each and all do so much work.

What is the fact? There are never, at one time, 100,000 convicts in all our prisons; and not half of them do, or ordinarily can do, a full man's work. But they all have to be fed, and the products of their labor must pay for their food. A quarter century that I have been giving some attention to their affairs, been half enough to pay for their food, clothing, shelter, and medical care, other cost of keeping them in prison. Consequently the rest of us, outside the prisons, have to pay for the cost of their support. The work the convicts do, the less we have to do for them; so that if they did not find a full day's work inside the prison, it would be a waste of money to keep them, but help them. This is the convict labor issue in a nutshell, and he is no friend to honest men who says that the Government is getting something out of its own living.—Boston Advertiser.

John T. Brush favors the scheme of having all postponed games played the very next day, so as to keep a record clean.

Hub Elliott has a deal of hard work this season. He was hit in the stomach with a pitched ball Thursday and put out of the game.

Curt Welch has lately been playing such a steady game that he is sure that he will probably fill that position permanently next season.

PREPARING FOR THE COWBOY TEAM.

The Shooting Match with the Kansas City Men—The Season's Sport.

The winter shooting season is on in earnest now and it promises to be extremely active. Secretary J. J. Jones has been elected from the Kansas City shooters in regard to the ward and deciding match between teams from this city and the ambitious town on the Kaw. The cowboys wish the match shot next month, but the local men will not listen to such a proposition and it will not take place until December.

The conditions will be ten men on a side, fifty birds a man. The Chicago men are confident of winning this year, claiming that they have a stronger team than ever in the field.

Champion Jim Elliott, who has hitherto founded the picking up of Chicago money more than a difficult problem, is not dissatisfied with the conditions. He has been within two weeks with plenty of backing for matches with the Kleimanns and all others who desire a game. Just what matches will be arranged it is difficult to say now, but Elliott will hardly wait for something to keep him busy after his arrival.

The fall duck shooting has thus far been a dismal failure and the probabilities are that no much sport will be had in this section. There are few ducks in the water and the main flight of teal was due more than a week ago, yet it has not started.

Owing to the continued warm weather, if the ducks do not come out in great numbers, many start the bow, but even then the season will be necessarily short. It would have been a limited one if the flight had started on time, owing to the continued drought. There is little hope of a big season. There are few ducks are giving it a wide berth in consequence. Several small bags have been made the past week at Fox Lake, where the fishing is also excellent.

There has been no snipe shooting here this fall to speak of, and will probably be none. The marshes are nearly all baked hard, and as a consequence birds have no feeding places.

The prospect for the coming season at the State, as announced Sept. 15, has been a failure. The pot-hunters killed off most of the birds before the season opened. It is becoming apparent that the chicken season opens in the fall. By Sept. 1 the birds are nearly all shot and after that take to the cornfields. It is almost impossible to find them with success after the 15th, as the weather is so hot that, a few days work for any length of time in heavy cover.

The quail season promises to be the largest in years. The birds are more plentiful than they have been for some time, the seasons have favored them. There is no reason to expect not be much shooting at them, however, until a heavy frost or two has cleared out the underbrush.

Jolly English Clergymen.

Owing to the fact that so many English citizens spend the summer on the continent, the different Church of England societies detail preachers of that faith to take their own vacation on the continent, and at all the resorts the preachers conduct religious services each Sunday. I have met a number of these ministers or rectors, and they seem to be a very jovial set of men. In contrast to our own preachers in the United States they not only frequent the gardens and drinking-places, but they do not hesitate to sit in the smoking-rooms of the hotels and indulge in "grog"—Scotch whiskey and water. "Why not?" said one of these preachers to me, as he tipped his grog and smoked his pipe. "I enjoy the good things of this world but do not abuse them." They are evidently the same kind of persons that Thackeray so vividly describes in his novels. I observe when handed a card by any of these preachers that they invariably give you their club as well as private address, and this is particularly true of London and the outskirts. One of these preachers seemed much surprised when told that it was a rare exception in the United States for a minister of the gospel to belong to a club.—London Letter.

Projected Reforms in Siam.

The progressive King of Siam, in his anxiety to better the condition of his people, has taken to wandering among them disguised in plain clothes. Amusing stories are told of the scant courtesy which he received last winter from his subjects, who did not recognize him and regarded his curiosity as a bit of impertinence. A few months ago he visited the Straits Settlements to obtain information about improvements he wished to introduce at home. Yet he decided not to curtail the number of days devoted to processions and royal shows in his capital, which he says are to expensive for the taxpayers, encourage the people in idleness, and take up the time of officials. He intends to make changes in the laws of slavery, which are the most flagrant evil of Siam. Any man in debt becomes the slave of his creditor, if he fails to pay the sum due. The King must originate every reform himself, for he is an absolute monarch, and not even his progressive subjects would dare to commit so great a breach of etiquette as to suggest any innovations upon established customs.

She Lived Alone Among Skeletons.

Two prospectors recently visited the Island of San Nicholas, off the Ventura coast, with the purpose of taking up land. They found the land on the island, which is four miles wide by twelve long, utterly barren. On the western side sand is about the only thing seen, and this has been blown from the beach clear to the top of the island, 700 or 800 feet high.

On the other side of the island they found human bones for a distance of five miles along the beach. They were very thick, and it looked as if it had been a graveyard. They also discovered the remains of human bodies on the ridge, which runs lengthwise through the island. In some places two skeletons were seen close together, as if they had been buried in the same grave. The wind had blown off what covering of soil had been thrown over them. Bones were thickly strewn along this ridge for upward of three miles. From appearances upward of 4,000 Indians must have been buried there.

A shanty which had been built on the west side was found buried clear to the roof in sand. There are now about 2,000 sheep on the island, and from a sort of rough grass they seem to keep fat. The party went into a cave which afforded an Indian woman, the sole occupant of the island, a home for seven years. It seems that when her party was leaving the island she jumped overboard and swam ashore in the night. Years went by before she was taken off.—Ventura (Cal.) Free Press.
