

The Busy Merchant.
Is the one who advertises what he has to sell and sells just what he advertises.

THE DAILY NEWS.

DAILY CIRCULATION
DURING MARCH 7,549
An Ad in The News Reaches the People

VOL. XXIX—WHOLE NO. 8869.

BATAVIA, N. Y., SATURDAY EVENING, APRIL 27, 1907—FOUR O'CLOCK.

PRICE ONE CENT.

Don't Forget
THE
Saturday Sale
OF Matinee
Chocolates.
A 50 CENT CANDY FOR 29c
TRY THEM.
Vaughan & Rider
PHARMACISTS.
Opp. Jackson St. Both Phones.

Our Kinds of LUNCHES
stand out from the others. They are different. There is nothing common about them. They create a lasting impression that makes you feel satisfied.
Hot Meats, Soups and Steaks. We serve the best Coffee, with Pure Cream.

THE EUROPEAN
WILLIAM DREES,
No. 38 Main Street, Batavia, N. Y.

SWANSON
It's a step in the right direction
when you become particular about your personal appearance.
It's the distinctive personality of our clothes that makes them the favorite with particular dressers.
It's the personal attention given each little detail that puts into our clothes that indescribable something that gives them character.

Clothes Maker

Special Collar Sale This Week.

2 For 25 Cts.
ATHENS
SLIP EASY BAND
"THEY STAND THE LAUNDRY"

WE WANT THE COLLAR TRADE
from the man who appreciates GOOD COLLARS. We sell no other sort of collar more than the Collars in this ad. They are the best collars you can get. We'll give you a 50-cent-per-dozen collar for every time they're sold.
COLLARS 15c, 2 for 25c.
CUTS 25 Cents per Pair.
These are our regular prices.
No deviation. These goods are well known by one of the best collar makers
in the country and our trade is immense.
We give our trade only good value. We're every wanted style.

The Store of Styles
Men's Fine Furnishings.
CUSTOM SHIRTS.
No. 101 MAIN STREET, BATAVIA.

May Records
For Edison
Phonographs
Come in and hear them.
$1.00 DOWN and $1.00 A WEEK takes a machine to your home.
OPEN EVERY EVENING.
We carry a full line of Records.
Burgess Piano Store
41 Main Street, Hotel Richmond Block

PRESIDENT'S TRIP UP JAMES RIVER

CHIEF EXECUTIVE AND PARTY
HAVING DAY OF PLEAS-URE ON THE SYLPH.

Jamestown, the Destination, With Stops En Route at Several Famous Colonial Mansions, Including the Homes of the Byrds, the Harrisons
and the Carters—The Party Will Be Transferred to the Mayflower
This Afternoon and the President
Will Sail for Washington Tonight.

By the Associated Press:
Norfolk, Va., April 27.—President Roosevelt and party, after participation in the inaugural events of the Jamestown exposition, spent today on a pleasure trip up the James River.
Rich in its historic associations, its shores lined with landmarks of the colonial days of the Old Dominion, the James river appealed to the President as the field for a day's quiet vacation and he looked forward to the trip as one of the noteworthy
features of his Jamestown exposition itinerary. The converted yacht Sylph, on which he embarked last evening
after his return from the dinner given in his honor by the president of the exposition, carried the party up the James.

The little yacht had slipped down
the bay from Norfolk during the night
to be in readiness for an early start.
The Sylph was headed directly up the river, with Jamestown as its destination. Much interest has been felt in the ruins at this historic spot, the first settlement of which the exposition commemorates. Along the river several stops at famous colonial homes
have been planned for the party.

At Westover, the home of the Byrds,
at Brandon, the home of the Harrisons,
and said to be the site of the oldest colonial mansion in the Old Dominion, and at Shirley, the ancestral dwelling place of the Carters, informal visits are to be made.
The entire trip for the day was arranged as a strictly private affair. No newspaper men accompanied the party and the President sought as far as possible to enjoy the day's vacation in the seclusion of his family and a few friends as their guests. The party will return late in the afternoon
and will be transferred to the cruiser yacht Mayflower, which is expected to leave Hampton Roads for the return trip to Washington about 7 o'clock this evening. It is expected that the Mayflower will reach Washington about 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

STRIKE IN BINGHAMTON.

Streetcar Employees Organized a Union and at Once Went Out.

Binghamton, April 27.—A streetcar strike is on here. The employees ar-ganized a union this week, the result of several weeks of agitation. Yesterday a number of men who had joined the union were discharged. Manager Clark declined to confer with the men except as individuals, refusing to recognize the union. Consequently a strike was ordered for 5
p. m. yesterday.

MEXICAN CABINET SAT UP ALL NIGHT

ASSASSINATION OF BARRILLAS TOPIC CONSIDERED.

Mexico City, April 27.—It is learned that the cabinet has been in session three times within the past 24 hours. A session last night lasted until a late hour.
It is the general belief that the matter under discussion concerned the assassination of General Manuel Barrillas, former president of Guatemala.
As stated in the dispatches, Morales and Aguirre, the assassins, made a confession to the Mexican officials, in which they directly implicated General Jose Maria Lima, now commanding officer of the Guatemalan troops at Guatemala City.
According to the confession, General Lima, who is a friend and favorite of Estrada Cabrera, president of Guatemala, directly instigated the plot which resulted in Barrillas's death. It is stated here unofficially that the discussion among the cabinet ministers hinged on the point that a demand for Lima's extradition be made on the ground that he was an accessory before the fact and directly responsible for Barrillas's death.
Barrillas was feared by the Cabrera government and it was said that he was to head a revolutionary movement against the existing Guatemalan government.
A rumor that Mexico is mobilizing troops on the Guatemalan frontier is denied.

Burning of a Road Machine Plant.

Utica, April 27.—The plant of the Acme Road Machine Company of Frankfort was totally destroyed by fire late last night, entailing a loss of $200,000 on stock equipment, besides the building, which was owned by the West Shore Railroad Company. The company employed about 100 hands.

SUICIDE AT SEA.

Ex-President Willcox of the D. & H.
Shot Himself on Steamship.

New York, April 27.—David Willcox of this city, former president of the Delaware & Hudson railroad, committed suicide at sea on Wednesday by shooting himself while in his stateroom on the North German-Lloyd steamship Barbarossa.
Mr. Willcox had been in poor health
some time and resigned his presidency of the railroad on that account. He then went abroad, hoping to obtain relief. It is said there had been no improvement in his condition, however, and he sailed for home from Naples, Italy, on April 13th. The Barbarossa reached this port last night and the captain reported to Health Officer Doty that the ship's doctor had just informed him that Mr.
Willcox had committed suicide. The doctor had previously claimed he died from natural causes.
Mr. Willcox, who never had married, was born in Brooklyn in 1849.
He was a lawyer by profession, but had been identified with railroads since 1893. His body was turned over to his cousin today.

FUMES OF SALTPETER OVERCAME FIREMEN

DOZEN IN CHICAGO NEARLY LOST THEIR LIVES.

Chicago, April 27.—Twelve firemen were overcome by smoke and poisoned
by saltpeter fumes in the hide cellar
of the Hammond Packing Company's beef house, 45th and Morgan streets,
which caught fire early today.
The firemen had pushed their way over piles of hides and were well in the back of the big cellar when the saltpeter, used in the process of tanning, began to asphyxiate them.
One by one they were overcome and pitched headlong to the smoldering hides. They were rescued with difficulty and two were found to be so seriously injured that they were taken to the hospital.
The fire was extinguished with a loss of $25,000.

COLLAPSE OF A PIER.

Several Lives Lost at the Immigration Station Near Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., April 27.—A pier
being built for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at the immigration station at Locust Point collapsed today.
Six bodies have been recovered.
Two men are missing and 15 others were injured.

RAILROAD OFFICERS HURT.

Inspection Train in Collision on the New York, Ontario & Western.

Middletown, April 27.—Several officials of the New York, Ontario &
Western railroad were cut and bruised
in a collision while making an inspection of the road today. At Parker Siding the inspection train ran into a mail train.

MISS HOLMES VERY EASY.

Sent Brawler Away Rejoicing, After Making Him a Present of $10.

New York, April 27.—Although beaten by a man whom she caught robbing her father's apartment in Brooklyn, Miss Elsie Holmes was so moved to compassion by the intruder's story of an infant child, ill and starving, that she allowed him to escape.
In addition, she forced him to accept a silver purse containing a $10
bill, after eliciting a promise from the man that he would reform. According to the story told by Miss Holmes, who is 21 years old and pretty, the man left the house with tears streaming down his cheeks.

NEW YORK SCANDAL.

T. J. Taylor Sued for Divorce by His Wife, Daughter of James R. Keene.

New York, April 27.—Mrs. Jessica H. Taylor, wife of Talbot J. Taylor and only daughter of James R. Keene, the famous Wall street speculator and race horse devotee, has begun a suit
for absolute divorce against her husband.
Taylor belongs to an old family in Baltimore. Since his marriage into the Keene family he has acquired great wealth and has been much in the limelight. Who the woman in the case has not been officially announced, but she is said to stand very high in the Four Hundred.

Another Dull Day on the Street.

New York, April 27.—The opening dealings in stocks were insufficient in volume and there was no decisive current in the price movement. The market was limited to small fractions either way. New York, Chicago and St. Louis sold at a decline of a point.

Ex-Governor Bullock Dead.

Buffalo, April 27.—A special to the News from Albion says that former Governor B. Bullock of Genesee

GOVERNOR HUGHES MADE AN ADDRESS

CHIEF SPEAKER AT DEDICATION OF AGRICULTURAL BUILD-INGS AT CORNELL.

New York's High Standing as an Agricultural State—Referred To—
Much Has Been Done in Recent Years to Improve the Condition of the Farmer, the Governor Said,
but Much Remains to Be Accomplished—Scientific Instruction Is Needed in "Rural Engineering."

By the Associated Press:
Ithaca, April 27.—The new buildings of the New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell University were dedicated today. The Rev. Dr. Tyler opened the exercises with prayer.
President Schurman introduced Governor Hughes, who spoke as follows:
"You have celebrated with fitting ceremony the hundredth anniversary of the birth of Ezra Cornell. Nothing could more suitably embody the spirit which animated him in the founding of Cornell University than this provision for instruction and experiment for the spread of useful information and for intelligent leadership in order to promote the agricultural interests of this state."

"The progress of civilization is perhaps most strongly marked by the widening of the area of instruction and the diminution of failures due to unfitted and untrained effort,
through the establishment of schools
for proper training and for the communication under skilled direction of the lessons of experience. And the modern breadth of view with reference to scholastic purpose and the rapid growth in appreciation by the people of the benefit of scientific instruction, could have no more striking illustration than the establishment, under the auspices of the state, in contact with schools of liberal arts, of politics and of law, of this school of agriculture."

JUDGMENT AGAINST LAWYER.

W. E. Prentice Sued by G. W. Hickox & Son Before Justice Bullock.

Suit brought by G. W. Hickox & Son against William E. Prentice was called for trial in Justice Bullock's court this afternoon. Mr. Prentice failed to appear, the jury he had called for was dismissed and judgment was taken by default.

COLLEGE CHAMPIONS ENGAGING IN EVENTS

GREAT GATHERING OF ATH-LETES IN PHILADELPHIA.

New York, April 27.—The big relay carnival which is to be held in Philadelphia today, while having a somewhat smaller entry in the number of teams competing than has occasionally been reported will have the highest class of competitors that has ever been gathered together in a collegiate event in America.

There are no less than 22 champions, holders of eastern and western intercollegiate titles or national championships, who will compete,
the special events and the races for the championship being especially notable in their strength. The three big collegiate events will be the races for the one, the two and the four-mile title.

DIVORCED FROM STORY.

Madame Emma Eames Granted an Interdictory Decree Today.

White Plains, April 27.—Judge
Tompkins, at a special term of the Supreme Court today, granted an in-terdictory decree of divorce, dissolving the marriage of Madame Emma Eames Story and her husband,
Julian Story, the artist.
The action and decree are based on statutory grounds. No coe-sion of social prominence is involved. Mrs. Eames may assume her maiden name and marry again, but Story cannot marry until the plaintiff is dead.

MR. SMITH'S WIDOW GETS FIVE MILLIONS

NOT SATISFIED AND WILL START A CONTEST.

New York, April 27.—The American today claims to have information that under the will of James Henry Smith, the millionaire, who recently died in Japan, the widow, who was
Mrs. Rhineland Stewart, receives $5,000,000, or an income from that sum, out of his immense estate. Lady Jane Cooper, his sister, inherits $20, 000,000, it says, while others of his blood relatives get liberal bequests.
According to the American friends of Mrs. Smith declare that she will not be satisfied with the provision made for her in this testament, and will contest it. The will is said to be in the possession of Lord and Lady Cooper, who recently came to New York. The testament will be probated after the funeral of Mr. Smith, whose remains are now en route to the city from Japan.

THE FINE SHOW TONIGHT.

At Elliott Hall tonight and all next week. The entertainment this evening will include "The Artist's Dream"
and "The Poor Teacher" in moving pictures and Charles K. Harris's latest song, "She Came Without a Wedding Ring" and "Where the Morn-ingglories Twine Around the Door."
Entirely new show Monday evening.
Admission, 5 cents to all.

ALBERT COE.

Death of Aged Le Roy Man Who Was Born in Pavilion 80 Years Ago.

Le Roy, April 27.—Albert Coe, who was born in Pavilion 80 years ago last February and moved from that town to Le Roy 33 years ago, died last evening at his home 2 1/2 miles east of this village. The direct cause of his death was a stroke of apoplexy which he suffered a few weeks ago, but he had been in ill health since last September.
Mr. Coe is survived by his wife, whose maiden name was Deborah Prentice and to whom he was married 54 years ago on January 1st, a son, Ezra S. Coe of this town; four daughters, Mrs. George Sperry of Zion City, Ill., Mrs. Charles J. Cole of Stafford,
Mrs. Clara McKewen of Wichita, Kan., and Mrs. Frank Walkley of Le Roy;
a brother, Emory Coe of Le Roy, and 15 grand children. He had been a member of the M. E. church over 50 years and was held in high esteem in the community.
The funeral will be held from Mr.
Coe's late home at 2 p. m. on Monday,
the Rev. Mark Kelley officiating. The burial will be in Machpelah cemetery.

RACING AT THE FAIR CERTAIN TO BE GOOD

ENTRIES CLOSE IN SEVERAL BIG EVENTS MAY 1ST.

Entries for the early closing race
events at the County Fair this year
must be in the hands of William M.
Torrance, the race secretary, on or before May 1st. Mr. Torrance has already received some entries and many inquiries from owners of fast horses
all over the eastern part of this country and in Canada, who have been attracted by the large purses offered.
There is every evidence that the races at the coming fair will be the best ever seen on the Batavia track.

It was expected that the bids for the construction of the addition to the grandstand at Agricultural Park would be opened at Secretary Brown's office this afternoon, but as not all of the members of the committee were able to be present the matter was indefinitely postponed.

ANNIVERSARY DANCE.

Profits of the Odd Fellows' Event to Be Sent to Lockport Home.

About 125 couples attended the dance of the Batavia Lodge, No. 157, L.O.O.F., in its hall on Jackson street
last evening, in celebration of the 55th anniversary of that order. The hall was completely filled, but in spite of the big crowd everyone enjoyed the event. Mrs. Trickett's orchestra, furnished the music and R. O. Hurt acted as prompter. Ice cream and cake were served by the wives of the Odd Fellows.

ONE FIRE COMPANY WILL NOT RESPOND

NEW ARRANGEMENT MADE IN REGARD TO ALARMS.

Trustees of the fire department held a regular meeting in the Hooks' barbers last night, 29 being present. The session was a brief one, not much outside of routine business being done.
Chief Engineer Steele brought up the matter of having one of the hose companies situated in the business portion remain in its quarters at all times, except in the event of a second alarm. Mr. Steele had been given permission by the aldermen to arrange some plan of this sort. The schedule as prepared provides that all the companies are to answer calls from boxes 43, 45 and 51, which are in the business portion. The Zephyrs are to remain in their quarters on calls from all other boxes, except when a second alarm is sounded, during which time they are to respond.

CHARLES LADDER OPERATED ON.

Charles Ladder, aged 18 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ladder of the Pearl street road, was operated on at the hospital yesterday for the removal of an abscess on the brain by Dr.
Johnson of Batavia and Dr. Richardson of Pennbrook. Dr. Cottis, Dr.
Conklin and Dr. C. G. Richardson of Batavia were present at the operation.

E. M. Jewell Buys Toronto Drugstore.

E. M. Jewell, formerly of Batavia, has purchased the drugstore owned by the Hooper Company (limited) at
No. 445 King street (west) in Toronto, Ont. This is the largest drugstore in Toronto and Mr. Jewell will devote his personal attention to the business.

Last Chance to See Thaw-White Case

tonight at Dreamland. Manager Levi has asked permission to hold these pictures for Monday afternoon's per-

BATAVIA L.O.O.F. MAY BUY CHURCH

LODGE NO. 197 NEGOTIATING FOR PURCHASE OF ST.
JAMES'S STRUCTURE.

Matter Favorably Considered by the Vestry, Which Has Appointed a Committee in Connection With the Matter—Odd Fellows Would Fit
Up the Building, Not Only For Its Own Uses, but For a Convention Hall and Would Subject it to Other Orders for a Meeting Place.

Batavia Lodge, No. 197, L.O.O.F., may buy St. James's church on Eli-cott street for an Odd Fellows' Temple.
The matter was brought to the attention of the vestry of the church at its meeting last evening and negotiations are now under way, with the probability that they will be successfully concluded.

Batavia Lodge has been considering the advisability of making a proposition to the church organization about a month. Investigations were conducted and the property seemed to be just what the lodge wanted. Consequently a committee of 12 men was appointed to take the matter up with the vestry of the church and last evening a proposition was presented.

The Rev. Alfred Brittain said today that the matter received favorable consideration from the vestry. A committee consisting of Mr. Brittain, Mayor Ballard, Frank B. Redfield and Charles W. Strickie was named to conduct the negotiations on the part of the church.

In the event of the Odd Fellows securing the property quite a number of changes will be made in the interior arrangement of the edifice to make it conform to the needs of the order. Further than that the changes will make it possible to sublet the building to other orders for a meeting place and for use as a convention hall as there seems to be a demand for a building for the latter purpose in Batavia at present.

Batavia Lodge has a lease of its present quarters in the Postoffice
building which runs for several years, enabling it to wait some time for the church property without embarrassment. This is quite essential, as the construction of the new St. James's church on East Main street will take almost two years and the ground has not yet been broken.

Batavia Lodge was organized on May 6, 1888, and now has a membership of over 220, making it one of the strongest lodges in the state. Thomas Yates, a Batavian who is now at the Odd Fellows' Home in Lockport, is the only surviving charter member of the lodge.

DE COT'S CLOTHES

are worthy of your inspection, consideration and wearing. The prices are surprisingly little for the big values
you get.

"See De Cot Before You Buy"

Between now and "when summer
comes again" you will need something
new.

MEDIUM WEIGHT UNDERWEAR.

GENTS AT 50c, 75c or $1 THE GAR-MENT AND UNION SUITS AT $1 AND
$2 ARE THE BEST YOU CAN GET
FOR YOUR MONEY.

DE COT BROS

Popular Tailors and Men's Furnishers,
NO. 70 MAIN STREET, BATAVIA.

Kustas Kandy Kitchen

In the Heart of Batavia.
Ice Cream

Smooth as velvet, made from pure
cream in assorted flavors: vanilla, chocolate and strawberry. Bricks or bulk. Delivered anywhere in the village.

Pint 15c---Quart 30c

THE GREEK-AMERICAN

Telephone 2724, No. 88 Main Street.

Chicken Dinner

Tomorrow
Clam Chowder Lunch
Tonight

Fresh Lobsters and Clams

All Green Goods in Season

Mayer's Cafe,

NO. 34 MAIN STREET,
LADIES' ROOM UPSTAIRS.

DELLINGER OPERA HOUSE, Edward Houghton, Mgr.

TUESDAY, April 30.

DARIO

The Great
Spanish Magician!

Prices 25c, 35c and 50c.
Seats Tonight at 7 p. m.

LUDMILA VOJACEK

"One of Bohemia's Best Pianists."

Thursday Eve., May 16

(BOHEMIAN ANNIVERSARY)
AT THE

Methodist Church

Tickets 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c.
THE WESLEY CLASS.

Violin Recital

BY
Miss Marjory Sherwin

Assisted by Miss Ludmila Vojacek
AT
State School for the Blind

Tuesday, April 30th.
at 8:15 p. m.

Tickets on sale at C. C. Bradley &
Co.'s store.

PRICE 35 CENTS.

New Fabrics For Spring

THAT WE PUT INTO OUR CLOTHES
have been selected with exceptional care, and our personal attention to every detail of the making adds immensely to the QUALITY, STYLE, FIT and WORKMANSHIP of the included garments. If you want to wear good clothes—clothes that come up to your most critical tastes—we shall be pleased to demonstrate that.

DE COT'S CLOTHES

are worthy of your inspection, consideration and wearing. The prices are
surprisingly little for the big values
you get.

"See De Cot Before You Buy"

Between now and "when summer
comes again" you will need something
new.

MEDIUM WEIGHT UNDERWEAR.

GENTS AT 50c, 75c or $1 THE GAR-
MENT AND UNION SUITS AT $1 AND
$2 ARE THE BEST YOU CAN GET
FOR YOUR MONEY.

DE COT BROS

Popular Tailors and Men's Furnishers,
NO. 70 MAIN STREET, BATAVIA.

Kustas Kandy Kitchen

In the Heart of Batavia.
Ice Cream

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY

Coughs, Colds, CROUP,
Whooping Cough

This remedy can always be depended upon and is pleasant to take. It contains no opium or other harmful drug and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult.

Price 25 cents, large size 50 cents.

To order your next winter's supply of COAL? Prices drop this month, and your orders will be filled at the April price if placed now.

Batavia, Lumber & Coal COMPANY.
Tel. phone—4271. Home phone—327

Time the Test

EVEN poor paint looks well when new. Time alone can test the quality. Some paints look well after 10 years' service. Others fade and worn in two seasons. Good paint always spreads more economically than poor.

PAINT VALUE IS NOT MEASURED BY CALORIES, BUT BY YEARS AND SQUARE YARDS. In buying B. P. S. Paint, you get the greatest possible value for your money.

John Holley Bradish
The Home of Reliable Hardware
No. 86 Main St.
Evenings.

NOTICE TO FARMERS—SEEDING GAIN CURE.
Will positively cure hails on horses. Work your team while it is in the stable. Costs you 25 cents. Get money back if it doesn't work. Sold only at our LEADLEY DRUG CO., 99 Main St.

We Can Do Good Printing.

THE NEWS JOB PRINTERY has the facilities to do the best kind of work. The latest styles of type, first-class presses and competent workmen are at the service of the customer. We do all kinds of printing, including

High Grade Booklets and every variety of Commercial Work.

Our prices are no higher than others charge, and we aim to do everything a little better than others do.

We should be pleased to submit estimates and prefer to make a price before you give us the order.

The News

ACROSS CONTINENT ON ARABIAN STEED

ARMY OFFICER WILL RIDE OVER 3,000 MILES.

Homer Davenport's Horse, Nejdram, to Go From Portland Ore., to Morris Plains, N. J., 49 Miles a Day, to Test the Endurance of Arab Breed.

Homer Davenport knows the difference between wild geese and tame geese. That was proved recently when he was called as an expert witness before the board of United States appraisers in New York city to pass upon the comparative values of imported geese from Canada.

Mr. Davenport also says that he knows the difference between a good horse and a bad one. This knowledge he proposes to demonstrate to the satisfaction of the United States government by allowing his imported Arabian stallion Nejdram to be ridden by a cavalry lieutenant from Portland, Ore., to the Davenport farm at Morris Plains, N. J., says the New York Sun. He expects the horse to average forty miles a day over the whole 3,181 miles.

Some time ago he went over to Arabia and took some long rides on the desert on the backs of little Arabian horses. With him there went a man who weighs 210 pounds and is six feet four inches tall in his stockings. One day this companion of Mr. Davenport rode a little mare over the desert at a gallop for six hours. The horse carried just 200 pounds and came into camp fresh as a June rose. That convinced Mr. Davenport of the merits of Arabian horses, and he bought some, brought them to the United States and started a farm at Morris Plains.

One of these Arabians was Nejdram. Nejdram came in a handsome box stall, and his pedigree, duly signed with Arabian flourishes and the seals of a pasha or two, came over in Mr. Davenport's trunk. Nejdram had been the property of Captain Galustford of the English army. He was played in the international polo matches in England in 1904 and came out sound of wind and limb. Twelve years is the age of Nejdram, and he is fourteen hands two inches high, all chestnut in color.

When Mr. Davenport exhibited him at the Lewis and Clark exposition in Portland, Ore., in the summer of 1905 Nejdram made a hit. He was pronounced perfect by Tom Matlock of Hesper, Ore., and Dr. McGinnis of Newcastle, Ky., authorities in whom Mr. Davenport puts much faith.

A few months ago Mr. Davenport wrote to President Roosevelt that in the interests of the cavalry service he was willing that an army officer should make a severe test of the Arabian breed by riding Nejdram from Portland to the home farm. No such test had ever been put upon a horse in the United States, said Mr. Davenport, and he thought a ride such as that would open the eyes of the army to the value of an Arabian horse as a steed.

President Roosevelt jumped at the suggestion. He communicated with Major General J. P. Bell, chief of staff, and through the office of General Bell arrangements were made for the ride of Nejdram. Second Lieutenant E. H. Warren McCabe, at present a student officer in the cavalry school at Fort Riley, Kan., was selected to make the ride. General Bell says that the test of endurance will not be all on the horse during the forthcoming trip. It will be rough on the rider. In a letter to Mr. Davenport, General Bell gives his reasons for selecting Lieutenant McCabe:

"It would not do to detail a large, heavy man to ride such a horse. Lieutenant McCabe is a little less than average size and is an athlete and gymnast, with muscles of steel. He is also an expert and experienced horseman, having, I think, from the state of Virginia. He is devoted to horses, to horsemanship and to outdoor life and is an experienced rider and polo player. I believe he also has the grit and endurance and is a modest boy. He would take great interest in the undertaking and, I am sure, would make every endeavor to bring the horse through in as short a time as would be compatible with maintaining him in good condition."

The chief of staff would have Nejdram's long journey systematized into a scientific experiment. Lieutenant McCabe will ride with the exact field equipment of a trooper of the service. He will see to it that Nejdram's load remains at all times as nearly the same as possible. The rider is advised by General Bell to keep daily records of the distance covered, the condition of the roads and of the weather and of what happens to the horse. The weight and condition of rider and mount at the beginning and end of the journey will be recorded. When it is all over General Bell will have in the archives data of considerable value.

Nejdram's exploit will probably find immortality in the book on Arabian horses which Mr. Davenport is now writing and which will make its appearance some time in the fall. He has sent abroad for the opinion of several foreign judges of horseflesh, and chief of his correspondents up to date has been Field Marshal Lord Roberts. Mr. Davenport has received from Lord Roberts an account of the merits of a little Arabian mare which he rode for twenty-two years in the service. In that time, according to Lord Roberts' estimate, the little mare covered 50,000 miles.

New Oats and Persimmons.
A new variety of oats expected to yield our farmers several bushels more per acre than any of the best species which they are now growing is one of the new plants which Frank N. Myer, Uncle Sam's agricultural explorer in China, has just found; also a delicious

FIRE AT SERENADERS.

Father of Iowa Bride Resented Music and Wounded Three Men.

Lovilia, Ia., April 27.—Resenting the manner in which 40 young men of the community sought to serenade his daughter, Grace, who had just been married to Earl Porter, George W. Wilson emptied the contents of a shotgun into the crowd Thursday night and seriously wounded three.

Arthur James was shot in the eye. Edward Morris in the neck and James McFall in the shoulder.

The serenaders returned Wilson's fire with brickbats, but cooler heads finally caused the crowd to disperse. Wilson was arrested yesterday, charged with an attempt to commit murder. He is a retired farmer and well-to-do. He secured bail.

MRS. JOSEPH B. FORAKER.

Clever Wife of Senator From Ohio and Her Aspirations.

Mrs. Joseph Benson Foraker, whose husband is contesting the political field in Ohio with Secretary William H. Taft, has a contest of her own on her hands. While Senator Foraker is appealing to the Republicans of the Buckeye State to endorse his presidential aspirations his wife is seeking the endorsement of her claims to the leadership of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

She was Miss Julia Bundy and graduated from the old Ohio Wesleyan college at Delaware, O., in 1868. It was there that she met Captain Foraker, who had gone into the war at sixteen and came out at nineteen and who took a course at Delaware, finishing his studies at Cornell university. She married the senator in 1870.

Mrs. Foraker keeps among her souvenirs a pair of slippers, once white, now

MRS. JOSEPH BENSON FORAKER.

yellow with age. When Benjamin Harrison was inaugurated in Washington Mrs. Harrison naturally had an extremely busy day. When evening came she was greatly fatigued, and her feet, eased in new shoes all day, were aching. Her inauguration ball slippers were of pearl embroidered white satin. She managed to get them on, but when she arrived in the ball room she was in agony. She took off her slippers, and the consequence was that when it came time to lead the grand march she could not get them on again. Mrs. Foraker was near by and offered her own slippers. They "felt like heaven," said Mrs. Harrison. Thereupon Mrs. Foraker said, "You wear them through the evening, and I will keep on my street boots." It saved the grand march. Mrs. Harrison presented her own slippers to her friend.

African Kings and Barons.

African culture had reached the feudalistic stage when interrupted by European intervention. African feudalism is said to be strikingly similar to that of Europe in the eighteenth century. At the great annual festival of the Ashantees—the yam custom—all the caboceros, captains and the great number of tributary kings or chiefs are expected to appear at the capital. The nobles or captains against whom the king has cause of complaint are then placed on trial. Sometimes a chief who suspects that he has become obnoxious to the king will not trust himself in the capital without the means of defense or intimidation. Sometimes a powerful cabocero will bring 3,000 armed attendants. This is analogous to the dealings of a monarch of mediaeval Europe with his great barons. The chiefs on the Gold Coast have their court forms and etiquette and their own customs and mode of living. Negro kings have insignia of royalty the same as civilized potentates. Some kings surround themselves with a certain amount of mystery and magic. Their persons are held sacred. The same practice and claim are made by rulers in other lands—Southern Workman.

Miners Killed by Gas Explosion.

Seattle, Wash., April 27.—Four miners were killed and nine severely injured yesterday in an explosion of gas on the sixth level of the Morgan slope at the Black Diamond mine of the Pacific Coast company, on the Columbia and Puget Sound railway.

Alcohol not needed
Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a strong drink. As now made, there is not a drop of alcohol in it. It is a non-alcoholic.

SAN NICOLAS ISLAND HELD INDIANS ONCE

NOW IT IS AN ENIGMA OF THE GREAT PACIFIC.

On This Barren, Wave-Swept Sand Dune Are Mounds of Shells and Bones and Stone Implements, Monuments of Lost Race of Ancients.

About eighty miles due northwest of San Pedro, in California, lies a desert island that has all the combined romance of the ages in its history. It is rarely visited and has but a single inhabitant, yet it has a peculiar fascination for many people. The very elements seem to conspire to make the place forbidden, as it almost invariably blows a gale of what in the vicinity and when one reaches the inhospitable island there is no bay or harbor for a craft much larger than a rowboat.

The island is about seven miles long by two or three in width and rises to a height of 800 to 1,000 feet in the center. Wind swept, forbidding, haunted by the spirits of storms, it does not invite inspection and appears to have been cursed by the elements, yet despite this the island was at one time the home of a numerous people, a race that has been lost sight of. The written records of the island are few and far between. In a sixty-ton yacht and was later blown off, finally making it one day about noon, coming to anchor near a long, slender-like tongue of land that extends out into the ocean, where the tide ran like a mill race and a heavy ground swell swept around the point from the windward side. The island of San Nicolas appears like a sand dune. The landing was a wave swept beach that received a high swell from three points, and it was evident that skill in landing alone would make it possible.

The boat lay off, waiting for a low sea, and finally went sailing in upon one of less size, and the crew jumped overboard and held on to the boat that the undertow and back rush attempted to claim. In this manner the entire party landed, and an investigation of the island was begun. The one inhabitant, a Basque, came down to the beach. He had not heard the news of the world for a year and did not display any disposition to learn it, but he was not happy—too many dead people, too many bones that make wind spirits blow, he said, and when he heard that the party was after the remains of these dead people he showed an inclination to leave. In all probability there is not in any land a more remarkable mound to be seen. About ten feet in height and nearly a mile in length, it was at this time a veritable Golgotha, a collection of bones and implements of the lost people, ever changing, ever shifting, today exposing numbers of skeletons, tomorrow covering them up in sheets of sand.

The mound was a town site upon which hundreds of people had lived for untold ages. They had brought in their shells and fish bones, piling them up at the doors of their huts, slowly building themselves up higher and higher, until in time they came to live on the top of a vast shell mound. Here they buried their dead, concealed their household goods, and when a man or woman died his or her possessions were buried with them, and so the big mounds were made up of shells, stone implements, fish and human bones—a monument of this lost race.

Where the original islanders came from, who they were or why they lived on such a wind swept, nearly waterless island is one of the mysteries, but it is known that the mission fathers visited San Nicolas years ago and took off the few survivors found there and divided them up among the various mainland tribes. When this human loss was being carried into execution, a storm came up, and in the hurry of departure it was found that a woman had left her baby on the beach.

It was impossible to land, so the captain sailed away, but not with the mother. She had plunged into the waves and swum a long distance to the shore and with her child was deserted, the captain intending to return later for her. San Nicolas, however, was not visited for many years. The vessel was wrecked, but the legend lived, and many years after a priest decided to visit the island and learn if the woman had arrived. An expedition was got up in 1850, the party making a safe landing. They formed a line across the island in order not to miss any signs of human habitation and began a slow search from the south point north. They soon found evidence of ancient occupation and in a deep canyon discovered a hut and a woman, the mother who had been deserted years before. She was lying in the hut, which was made of whale ribs and sea lion hair, her sole companions being several wild dogs that savagely charged the strangers.

The woman could not make herself understood, and, singularly enough, no one in all the Indian tribes in southern California could be found who understood her. She told her discoverers by signs that the wild dogs had killed her child long ago and that she killed sea lions and sea birds with stones and lived on them.

At first she appeared to be afraid of the men; but, finding that they treated her kindly, she consented to go with them. She took all the rude articles she had used during the years of her solitude, her skin dresses, made mostly from the skins of the sea lions, and an interesting were the costumes that

New York Central Lines to New York. 9 trains a day from Batavia. They all run into Grand Central station.

THE VALUE OF PERSONAL KNOWLEDGE

Personal knowledge is the winning factor in the culminating contests of this competitive age and when of ample character it places its fortunate possessor in the front ranks of

The Well Informed of the World.

A vast fund of personal knowledge is really essential to the achievement of the highest excellence in any field of human effort.

A Knowledge of Forms, Knowledge of Functions and Knowledge of Products are all of the utmost value and in questions of life and health when a true and wholesome remedy is desired it should be remembered that Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., is an ethical product which has met with the approval of the most eminent physicians and gives universal satisfaction, because it is a remedy of Known Quality, Known Excellence and Known Component Parts and has won the valuable patronage of millions of the Well Informed of the world, who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual use that it is the first and best of family laxatives, for which no extravagant or unreasonable claims are made.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent family laxative. As its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well Informed of the world to be the best we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of—Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects, always note, when purchasing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, whether you call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., U.S.A.
LOUISVILLE, KY. LONDON, ENGLAND. NEW YORK, N.Y.

they were sent to Rome to the pope by the priest who instigated the rescue.

The woman was taken to Santa Barbara and named Maria, after the little vessel which accomplished her rescue. She was placed in care of a family, who did everything possible for her. She was bright and vivacious in disposition, learned some Spanish, danced and sang for her friends and was visited by Indians from various parts of California in an effort to find some one who could understand her. But civilization proved too much for her, and she died in three months, one of the most remarkable Crusoes known, as her story is based on actual facts and in its details is much stronger than fiction.

The interesting mound which the writer examined on San Nicolas was formed during past centuries by the ancestors of this woman and possesses an intense interest on this account. The island near the landing was twenty or thirty feet higher than the shore and reached through singular wind worn passes, wind being the sculptor here. Once on the heights a broad mesa was seen, as level as a floor and marked with lines which resembled ancient plowing or something of the kind. The mesa was covered with fine flinty stones about the size of peas, which the herder says were picked up by the wind and blown through the air at times. They were arranged like chess on a bench. The writer followed this mesa for several miles, and that the island had had a large and vigorous population at some distant time was evident. Every short distance some object was found, now a pipe made from the vertebrae of a fish, a needle of fish bone, a dish made from a shell, the holes plugged with asphaltum. Here would be a stone club or mortar of steatite, a spearhead or a slinker and shell hooks that some fisherman centuries ago perhaps had dropped and forgot.

Everywhere piles of big pearly shells of a size unknown here were found, telling of the lives and work of these people. One mound was found covered by the ribs of whales and beneath them a dark rock bearing marks of various kinds, and then the owner, a skeleton in perfect preservation, and all about it in the sand vessels of stone, flutes of bird bones and the various objects which went to make up the home of this unknown. In one spot six layers of skeletons were found, the lowest apparently very old. The question of age is always very interesting, but no one in contemplating these great shell deposits can form an adequate idea of their age.

The island evidently has been inhabited since the earliest times. But the elements have conspired against it, and it is doomed to be swept and covered with sand. The island is now frequented by the professional collectors, who go over from the mainland and live here for weeks and months, camping out on the sand dunes, weighing their tents down with rocks to prevent being blown into the sea. Every morning they go out, with their hooks and poles, hunting for the spoils which have been uncovered by the wind in the night. In this way tons of material have been collected here and sent all over the world.—Chicago Chronicle.

"Toffee" as Made in England.
It may be possible that there are some persons who grow old so thoroughly that they actually forget that they ever were children, says a writer in the Bohemian, but I can't help wondering if any men or women ever

HUNELAX

THE BEE-HIVE-SHAPED BOWEL BOB-BON

"Pure as honey." As good as it's pure. Keeps you sweet inside and outside.

HUN-E-LAX keeps you well. Cures Sick Headache. Promotes Activity of Liver. Imparts Regular Habits to the Bowels. Cultivates and Stimulates Health.

10 cents—The Box of 3—all druggists. Write: Laxative Company, Buffalo, N. Y.

Do Not Forget We Are Selling Paper Wall AT VERY LOW PRICES And Can Save You Money if You Give Us a Call.

J. B. GRIFFIN
109 MAIN ST., BATAVIA.

The New Ready-to-Wear Sailors
Come in and see these New, Ready-to-Wear Striped Sailors. They are good to look at, on and off your head. Made of satin broad, and come in black and white. Wide brim. The very latest.

New Belts
In a large variety of colorings, in leather and silk, 25c and 50c. A NEW WAIST BELT of buckled leather, pearl buckle, 25c. A NEW VELVET AND TINSIL BELT, in Roman stripe, 50c and 25c. NEW BELT BUCKLES, in silver, gold and pearl, 50c, 25c, 15c and 10c. "DISTRICT BROWN" and "TEDDY BEAR" BELTS for children.

John S. Casey
AGENT HALL PATTERNS. NO. 59 MAIN STREET.

Spring Tonic
Strictly Pure Bottled Beer and Ale By the Case The best tonic for Spring. The finest Imported Wines and Liquors of the choicest vintage. Order by Phone and the goods will reach you quickly.

SAN NICOLAS ISLAND

HELD INDIANS ONCE

NOW IT IS AN ENIGMA OF THE GREAT PACIFIC.

On This Barren, Wave Swept Sand Dune Are Mounds of Shells and Bones and Stone Implements, Monuments of Lost Race of Ancients.

About eighty miles due northwest of San Pedro, in California, lies a desert island that has all the combined romance of the ages in its history. It is rarely visited and has but a single inhabitant, yet it has a peculiar fascination for many people. The very elements seem to conspire to make the place forbidden, as it almost invariably blows a gale of wind in the vicinity and when one reaches the inhospitable island there is no bay or harbor for a craft much larger than a rowboat.

The island is about seven miles long by two or three in width and rises to

The island is about seven miles long by two or three in width and rises to a height of 800 to 1,000 feet in the center. Wind swept, forbidding, haunted by the spirits of storms, it does not invite inspection and appears to have been cursed by the elements, yet despite this the island was at one time the home of a numerous people, a race that has been lost sight of. The writer made several attempts to reach the island in a sixty ton yacht and was literally blown off, finally making it one day about noon, coming to anchor near a long, specter-like tongue of land that extends out into the ocean, where the tide ran like a mill race and a heavy ground swell swept around the point from the windward side. The island of San Nicolas appears like a sand dune. The landing was a wave swept beach that received a high swell from three points, and it was evident that skill in landing alone would make it possible.

The boat lay off, waiting for a low sea, and finally went sailing in upon one of less size, and the crew jumped overboard and held on to the boat that the undertow and back rush attempted to claim. In this manner the entire party landed, and an investigation of to claim. In this manner the entire party landed, and an investigation of the island was begun. The one inhabitant, a Basque, came down to the beach. He had not heard the news of the world for a year and did not display any disposition to learn it, but he was not happy—too many dead people, too many bones that make wind spirits blow, he said, and when he heard that the party was after the remains of these dead people he showed an inclination to leave. In all probability there is not in any land a more remarkable mound to be seen. About ten feet in height and nearly a mile in length, it was at this time a veritable Golgotha, a collection of bones and implements of the lost people, ever changing, ever shifting, today exposing numbers of skeletons, tomorrow covering them up in sheets of sand.

The mound was a town site upon which hundreds of people had lived for untold ages. They had brought in their shells and fish bones piling them up at the doors of their huts, slowly building themselves up higher and higher, until in time they came to live on the top of a vast shell mound. Here they buried their dead, concealed their household goods, and when a man or woman died his or her possessions were household goods, and when a man or woman died his or her possessions were buried with them, and so the big mounds were made up of shells, stone implements, fish and human bones—a monument of this lost race.

Where the original islanders came from, who they were or why they lived on such a wind swept, nearly waterless island is one of the mysteries, but it is known that the mission fathers visited San Nicolas years ago and took off the few survivors found there and divided them up among the various mainland tribes. When this human loot was being carried into execution, a storm came up, and in the hurry of departure it was found that a woman had left her baby on the beach.

It was impossible to land, so the captain sailed away, but not with the mother. She had plunged into the waves and swum a long distance to the shore and with her child was deserted, the captain intending to return later for her. San Nicolas, however, was not visited for many years. The vessel was wrecked, but the legend lived, and many years after a priest decided to visit the island and learn if the woman had survived. An expedition was got up in 1850, the party making woman had survived. An expedition was got up in 1850, the party making a safe landing. They formed a line across the island in order not to miss any signs of human habitation and began a slow search from the south point north. They soon found evidence of ancient occupation and in a deep canyon discovered a hut and a woman, the mother who had been deserted years before. She was living in the hut, which was made of whale ribs and sea lion hair, her sole companions being several wild dogs that savagely charged the strangers.

The woman could not make herself understood, and, singularly enough, no one in all the Indian tribes in southern California could be found who understood her. She told her discoverers by signs that the wild dogs had killed her child long ago and that she killed sea lions and sea birds with stones and lived on them.

At first she appeared to be afraid of the men; but, finding that they treated her kindly, she consented to go with them. She took all the rude articles she had used during the years of her solitude, her skin dresses, made mostly from the skins of the sea lions, and so interesting were the costumes that they were sent to Rome to the pope by the priest who instigated the rescue.

The woman was taken to Santa Barbara and named Maria, after the little vessel which accomplished her rescue. She was placed in care of a family, who did everything possible for her. She was bright and vivacious in disposition, learned some Spanish, danced and sang for her friends and was visited by Indians from various parts of California in an effort to find some one who could understand her. But civilization proved too much for her, and she died in three months, one of the most remarkable Crusoes known, as her story is based on actual facts and in its details is much stronger than fiction.

The interesting mound which the writer examined on San Nicolas was formed during past centuries by the ancestors of this woman and possesses an intense interest on this account. The island near the landing was twenty or thirty feet higher than the shore and reached through singular wind worn passes, wind being the sculptor here. Once on the heights a broad mesa was seen, as level as a floor and marked with lines which resembled ancient plowing or something of the kind. The mesa was covered with fine flinty stones about the size of pens, which the herder says were picked up by the wind and blown through the air at times. They were arranged like chaff on a beach. The writer followed this mesa for several miles, and that the island had had a large and vigorous population at some distant time was evident. Every short distance some object was found, now a pine some object was found, now a pipe made from the vertebrae of a fish, a needle of fish bone, a dish made from a shell, the holes plugged with asphaltum. Here would be a stone club or mortar of steatite, a spearhead or a sinker and shell hooks that some fisherman centuries ago perhaps had dropped and forgot.

Everywhere piles of big pearly shells of a size unknown here were found, telling of the lives and work of these people. One mound was found covered by the ribs of whales and beneath them a flat rock bearing marks of various kinds, and then the owner, a skeleton in perfect preservation, and all about it in the sand vessels of stone, flutes of bird bones and the various objects which went to make up the home of this unknown. In one spot six layers of skeletons were found, the lowest apparently very old. The question of age is always very interesting, but no one in contemplating these great shell deposits can form an adequate idea of their age.

The island evidently has been inhabited since the earliest times. But the elements have conspired against it, and it is doomed to be swept and covered with sand. The island is now frequented by the professional collectors, who go over from the mainland and live here for weeks and months, camping out on the sand dunes, weighting their tents down with rocks to prevent being blown into the sea. Every morning they go out, with their hooks and poles, hunting for the spoils which have been uncovered by the wind in the night. In this way tons of material have been collected here and sent all over the world.—Chicago Chronicle.